AUGS students anticipate Operation Snowflake

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Winter brings snowflakes. Lots of them.

One special Operation Snowflake brings smiles instead of frowns to parents and children alike.

This Operation Snowflake is expected to take Antioch Upper Grade School (AUGS) by storm.

Snowflake is an all day non-stop fun event. There will be small groups and large groups, "tons" of games and more pizza than any junior high student can eat. Candy, music, laughter and craziness are all expected to be included.

Another positive for the seventh and eighth graders is that they are given permission to call teachers "by their first names!"

Some high school students will serve as leaders in the small groups.

Snowflake will take place at Lake Hastings YMCA Camp on the "Hastings Site" from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday, Feb. 21. This will be a teacher institute day so school will not be in session. Students will be required to arrange their own transportation to and from the event, because buses will not be operating.

Registration forms were handed out to students. If additional ones are needed, they should stop at Mrs. Lind's office.

Cost is $15. Students in need of financial assistance are encouraged to have a parent or guardian contact Mrs. Lind at 838-8333. Several community businesses have donated scholarships.

The fee includes all of the day's activities, a t-shirt, lunch and "wonderful memories."

The AUGS Snowflake mission statement is: "A prevention (not intervention) program which seeks to improve students' decision making skills by emphasizing each person's uniqueness through small and large group activities."

A desired outcome is to utilize positive peer pressure among snowflake attendees which will spread to the rest of the student community.

The general idea of the day is to encourage healthy choices which students are already making to keep them on the right track. Students are expected to see what a fun and exciting time they can have without drugs or alcohol.

According to AUGS officials, the focus this year is going to be accepting each other's differences, which includes stopping the teasing, harassment, bullying and other negative interactions youth sometimes have with each other. These are big issues among middle school age students.

The final 45 minutes of the day, from 4:15-5 p.m., parents are encouraged to join in for a student-parent game show.

Two positions open on St. Peter's board

Election held the end of April

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Two positions on St. Peter's School Board of Education will be available in April.

As of April 30, Jim Murray and Julianne Thain will have completed their terms.

As a result, a vote will be taken among St. Peter's School parents and parishioners at the Antioch church.

Terms are for a period of three years with individual members allowed to serve a maximum of two elected terms.

The election will be held the weekend of April 29 after the masses.

All adult parishioners or parents of St. Peter's School children are eligible to vote. Parish rolls will be used to determine voter eligibility. In the event of a tie, a runoff election will be held on the following Sunday.

Ballots will be available in Fr. Frawley Hall after each mass. Absentee ballots will be available in the school office.

Prospective members must qualify according to the school board requirements: reside in the community for at least six months; be a parish member or parent of a St.

Peter's School child; and be at least 18-years-old. No person employed by the school may serve on the board.

Candidates for board membership must submit their application-petition, signed by a minimum of 10 parishioners or parents of St. Peter's School children, to the principal no later than 3 p.m. Tuesday, March 7.

Application-petitions are available at the school office during school hours. Names will appear on the ballot in the order the petitions are filed.

Announcement of qualifying candidates will be made during the March 9 regular school board meeting.

The St. Peter School Board serves the parish, the school and the administration strictly as an advisory group. It is a function of the board to provide advice, encouragement, support and cooperation in all areas of school life.

Currently serving on the board are Julianne Thain, president; Pat O'Connell, vice president; Joanne Adams, secretary; and board members Don Oelerich, Laura Conley, Jim Murray and Jim Ortelili.

Excited about X Games

22-year-old Kent Ipsen competing in professional snocross

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Ready to soar.
Antioch native Kent Ipsen will be competing in the X Games snocross portion on Friday, Feb. 4 at Mt. Snow, Vt.

Snocross is part of the Olympic-style format Winter X Games being held Feb. 2-6. ESPN, ESPN-2 and ABC will be broadcasting various portions of the event.

The 2000 Winter X Games marks the 22-year-old's second competition in the invitation-only event.

In 1999, Ipsen placed 11th out of 32 competitors as the only semi-pro to be invited to Crested Butte, Colo.

For the 1998-99 season on the World Snowmobile Association (WSA) circuit, Ipsen placed first in the national series 440 semi-pro snocross and open semi-pro snocross divisions. The classes are divided according to the size of the engine in the snowmobile.

In the 600 class, Ipsen placed third in the pro snocross regional series and fourth in the semi-pro snocross national series.

"It's a dream he's always wanted to do," said Ellyn Ipsen, Kent's mother, who with husband, Brad, will be in Vermont to cheer their son on.

"I'm glad he's been given the opportunity to do it," Ellyn Ipsen said. "I watched him at Crandon, and I'd much prefer to get a phone call on Sunday to tell me how he did. It's kind of nerve-racking. It makes me nervous, but it's still fun to watch."

The reaction of people within the Antioch community has been equally positive. "It's fun to be watching something on television and actually know someone who is competing," Ellyn Ipsen admits.

Kent Ipsen was born and raised in Antioch, having graduated from St. Peter's Grade School in 1990 and Antioch Community High School (ACHS) in 1994. He is pursuing a degree in business at the College of Lake County in Grayslake.

During the off season, Kent Ipsen works as an apprentice

Community Editor

It is time to meet the candidates.

The Antioch Township Republican Club will be hosting its "Meet Your Candidates Night" at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 16 at the Regency Best Western Motel on Rte. 173 in Antioch.

The public is invited to attend this opportunity to meet local and county Republican candidates prior to the upcoming March 21 primary election.

Len Mattson, Antioch Township Republican Club president, explained the format is informal, yet informative, allowing the public an opportunity to visit with the candidates on virtually a one-on-one level.

No formal presentations or speeches are planned.

"This is an ideal opportunity to meet your elected officials and discuss issues of importance to you, the voters," Mattson emphasized.

Questions regarding the evening's program can be directed to Mattson at 838-0725.

House numbering program underway by Fire Department

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

The Antioch Fire Department is working to make it easier to find locations in case of emergency.

While buildings and homes within the village limits of Antioch are relatively easy to find, those in unincorporated parts of the township are more difficult to locate at times.

"One of the biggest challenges firefighters face when responding to a call is locating a home that does not have proper numbering," admits Fire Chief Dennis R. Volling.

"Often times the homeowner has taken down or moved the house numbers," Volling explained.

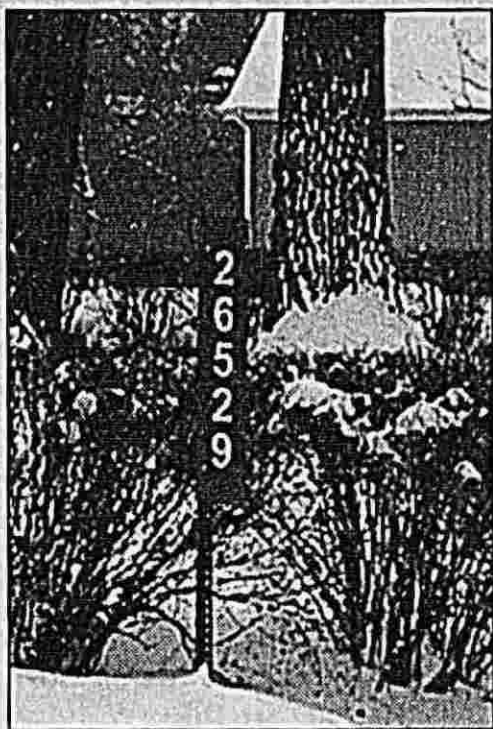

There is an ordinance requiring all homes to have the address displayed using three inch letters of a contrasting color. This is not always found, Volling said.

In an effort to make it easier for emergency crews to find residents, the First Fire District of Antioch is initiating a pilot program to help overcome the problem.

The district is purchasing reflective signs which are installed at no cost to the homeowner. The signs are green with white lettering, and are made of a reflective material.

The signs are placed at the end of the homeowner's driveway so when an emergency vehicle is driving down the road it makes it easier to find the location.

The Indian Point subdivision was Because homes in unincorporated parts of Antioch township are sometimes difficult to locate, the fire department is in the process of numbering all homes that do not have a street address.

the first to have signs put up. The next area will be the Villa Rica subdivision located off Grass Lake Rd.

According to Volling, plans are to have signs throughout the entire district within the next year or two years at the most.

Homeowners with questions are recommended to contact the fire district at 395-5511.

Club has 'Beary' nice donations

By ANGELA D. SYKORA
Staff Reporter

Lakeland Community Club gave the Greater Round Lake Fire Protection District a "beary" wonderful donation.

Approximately 15 children, whose families are members of the social and charitable club, presented the fire department with 25 teddy bears to give to children involved in crisis situations.

In addition to planned adult and children's activities, the club holds fund-raisers to raise money for various causes.

Vice President Kristi Benson, said the club used some of its fund-raising money to buy the teddy bears from Bear Magic of Lake County, an organization that sells stuffed animals to groups for donation.

"It went very well," said Benson, of the event.

"After the donation, the kids took a tour of the firehouse, watched a safety video and had a pizza party with the firefighters," she said.

Paula Rohrs, public education coordinator for the fire department, said the bears will be placed into ambulances and other vehicles to give to children who are in an upsetting situation.

"It helps to calm them down," said Rohrs.

The Lakeland Community Club serves families in Lindenhurst, Lake Villa, Antioch, Gurnee and Round Lake.

Monthly public meetings are held the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at State Bank of the Lakes in Lindenhurst.

The club welcomes new residents to the area, and plans fun get-togethers for children and adults including restaurant and movie outings, golfing, bowling, holiday parties and more.

They have several children's play groups established and also have a baby-sitting co-op.

Anyone can become a member for $20 a year. Those interested are welcome to drop in on a meeting and check it out.

In addition to monthly meetings, the club has a daytime social on the third Wednesday of every other month from 9:30-11:30 a.m. at State Bank of the Lakes. The next daytime social is March 15.

For more information about joining Lakeland Community Club, contact Linda Dahnert, membership coordinator, at 265-6211; or Debra Sinclair, president, at 356-9214.

CLC Board approves new degree options

The College of Lake County board of trustees approved new associate in applied science degree options, one in Computer Information Systems (CIS) and another in Horticulture.

The new Java Programmer CIS degree option will prepare students to write software in JAVA, a programming language used extensively in web applications.

The new Horticulture degree option, Natural Areas Management, will prepare students for careers in restoring and maintaining natural areas like wetlands, prairies, savannas and woodlands. In addition to the degree option, the board approved a 22-credit-hour Natural Areas Management certificate.

Implementation of the new programs is subject to state approval. The new offerings are being added as part of an ongoing college effort to ensure that programs meet changing business and community needs, according to Russell Peterson, vice president for educational affairs.

In related academic news, the board approved educational agreements with the University of Illinois (U of I) at Springfield and Franklin University of Columbus, Ohio, that will allow CLC students to complete bachelor's degrees online. Under the U of I agreement, CLC students who earn an associate degree can complete an online bachelor of liberal studies program offered by the U of I through the Illinois Virtual Campus. Under the agreement with Franklin University, CLC graduates will be able to complete bachelor's degrees online in the areas of business administration, computer science, health service administration, technical administration and management information systems. Both agreements enhance program options for CLC graduates and help to create a smooth transition from CLC, noted Peterson.

Competing in snocross is very demanding both on man and machine. The course is similar to a motocross style design with a series of jumps and turns involved.

To keep in shape for competition, during the off season, Kent Ipsen works out three to four times per week along with running five miles in addition to working 10-hour days at his job.

The combined efforts of the team with Kent Ipsen's determination and the family support are hoped to bring about continued positive results.

ANTIOCH

Traffic complaint

Steven R. Viger, 51, 297-7 Jamaica, Vacation Village, Fox Lake, was stopped by Antioch Police at 2:25 p.m. Jan. 29. An Antioch police officer was responding to a complaint regarding a male subject drinking beer while driving a black Ford Pickup at the State Bank of the Lakes, 440 Lake St., Antioch. Upon arriving at the bank, the police officer observed a vehicle matching the description in the drive-through line. When the truck exited the bank lot, it was reportedly observed failing to signal when making a left turn from Lake St. onto Orchard. The vehicle was pulled over at Orchard and Main St. When approaching the driver, Viger, the officer observed in plain view an open and half-full 12-ounce bottle of Bud Ice beer sitting between the two front seats. When asked about the bottle, Viger reportedly responded it was his. While speaking to Viger, the officer allegedly smelled a faint odor of an alcoholic beverage on his breath. The officer had Viger exit the vehicle and complete the field sobriety tests, which Viger did without error. Viger received a traffic ticket for illegal transportation or possession of alcoholic liquor by a driver and was released. No court date was set.

Disorderly conduct

Kenneth L. Strohmman, 29, 228 Orbiter Dr., Round Lake Beach was arrested by Antioch Police at 3:19 a.m. Jan. 30 at the Las Vegas Restaurant, 914 Main St., Antioch. Police responded to a call of a disturbance in progress. When officers arrived, Strohmman was observed reportedly shouting at the manager and other customers in the area. According to the report, Strohmman appeared highly intoxicated with a strong odor of alcohol on his breath and red glassy eyes. A female subject was observed attempting to calm Strohmman down with negative results.

The subjects were separated, with the officer speaking to the restaurant manager first. According to the manager, Strohmman was being belligerent, yelling profanities about the disappointing level of service at the waitress. The manager was alarmed and disturbed by Strohmman's actions and words, believing a breach of the peace was committed. The manager wished to sign a complaint for disorderly conduct and did not wish to have Strohmman return to the restaurant. The manager said other customers left the restaurant because of Strohmman's behavior.

The officer spoke with Strohmman, who told the officer "the service (was terrible)" and he wanted everyone to know about it. Strohmman reportedly said the whole incident was blown out of proportion and he was leaving. At that time, the officer placed Strohmman under arrest and put him into a squad car for transportation to the Antioch Police station.

The officer spoke with the female accompanying Strohmman, who reportedly said he was a little loud, but meant no harm by voicing his opinion. She apologized for the incident and advised she was the designated driver that evening and apologized again.

According to what the waitress told the officer, Strohmman was being very loud and disturbing other customers with profanities and his loud nature. The waitress said she was serving Strohmman's party their order when she was not fast enough and Strohmman began yelling. The waitress advised the manager of the incident and the manager attempted to resolve the matter by asking Strohmman to refrain from using profanities in her presence, but Strohmman continued.

Strohmman was transported to the Antioch Police station where he was issued a non-traffic citation for disorderly conduct. Strohmman was released on personal recognizance to his female companion since she had not been drinking. Strohmman has a court date of 9 a.m. Feb. 23 at Branch III Court in Grayslake.

Warrant arrest

Joseph M. Schanes, 54, 23622 W. Park Terrace, Antioch, was stopped by Antioch Police at 2:12 a.m. Jan. 28 while eastbound on Rte. 173 at Madison in Antioch. Schanes was reportedly driving a red Dodge Shadow, eastbound on Rte. 173 at Grimm Rd., weaving within the eastbound lane then across the white fog line. When asked by the officer, Schanes produced his driver's license, said he did not have proof of insurance in the vehicle and wasn't paying attention to his driving. When the license was run through a computer check, Schanes was found to be wanted on an outstanding warrant from the Lake County Sheriff's office for domestic battery with no bond. Schanes was placed under arrest and transported to Antioch Police station. Schanes was charged with improper lane usage and operating an uninsured vehicle. After posting his driver's license for bond, Schanes has a court date of 9 a.m. Feb. 23 at Branch III Court in Grayslake. Schanes was transported to the Lake County Jail where he was turned over to sheriff's authorities on the outstanding warrant.

Jailed in armed robbery attempt

By TIM O'DONNELL
Staff Reporter

The Mundelein Police Department arrested a subject in an attempted armed robbery of the Domino's Pizza on 837 S. Lake St.

Jesse A. Chicas, 20, of Mundelein was arrested on Jan. 26 at 6 p.m. after the police received an anonymous tip.

On Dec. 24, Chicas, wearing black clothes and a black mask, allegedly approached the lone clerk in the store, showing him the handle of a gun in his pants.

Chicas forced the clerk into a back freezer, taking the keys to the cash box.

As he attempted to open the cash box, the delivery driver came in the door.

Thinking Chicas had left, the clerk came out of the freezer. The clerk kicked the assailant down, knocking the gun loose from his hands. Chicas pulled a knife on the clerk and threatened to kill him. He then escaped through the back door.

Police recovered a B.B. gun that resembled a .45 caliber handgun at the scene.

After they arrested Chicas, the police found the clothes and knife that were used in the attempted robbery at his residence. They also found a newspaper article from when the original incident occurred hanging on his mirror.

Chicas was charged with attempted armed robbery because he did not get away with any money. He was also charged with aggravated assault for threatening the clerk while concealing his face.

Chicas is currently being held at the Lake County Jail on a $100,000 cash bond.

Garage fire collapses roof, damages cars

Man suffers smoke inhalation trying to fight car fire

By TIM O'DONNELL
Staff Reporter

A fire in an underground parking garage on the 13000 block of Heiden Circle caused the lot's roof to collapse, crushing three cars, fire officials said.

Eric Boulton, 42, a resident of the condominium complex that the garage serviced, was injured in the fire and later hospitalized in serious condition.

At about 2:50 a.m. Boulton tried to extinguish a fire that had started in his car, officials said. While he was doing this, he suffered smoke inhalation.

The car fire spread to two other cars, causing an intense heat inside the garage. The heat caused part of the ceiling structure to collapse onto the three burning cars. The cause of the fire is undetermined.

In all, about 60 cars were damaged by the heat and smoke created by the fire. Total damages from the fire were estimated between $200,000 and $300,000.

Smoke from the fire permeated the condos above, causing the evacuation of about 40 units.

Fire departments from Countryside, Deerfield, Gurnee, Grayslake, Knollwood, Lake Forest, Lake Zurich, Mundelein, North Chicago and Waukegan lent equipment and personnel to help fight the fire. Equipment from four other departments was on call at the Libertyville stations.

Man faces 12 years for cocaine

Richard Klass, 47, of Mundelein could face up to 12 years in prison after he plead guilty to possession of a controlled substance on Jan. 27.

Klass was arrested on Aug. 6 after a search of his house by the Mundelein Police Department uncovered roughly two ounces of powdered cocaine stashed in the kitchen and living room.

The illegal substance had a street value of around $3,000.

The maximum penalty for this charge is usually 15 years, but a plea negotiation limited Klass' sentence to a maximum of 12 years.

Klass posted 10 percent of a $150,000 bond. His sentencing hearing will be held on March 17.—By Tim O'Donnell

Land Grant applications accepted

Department of Natural Resources Director Brent Manning announced that applications are now available for the Open Land Trust grant program, Governor George Ryan's landmark initiative to acquire and protect open space for future generations.

"The program provides grants to eligible local governments, to protect open space, wildlife habitat, watersheds, greenways and natural areas and to provide enhanced outdoor recreational opportunities," Manning said. "As the population grows and development pressures increase, the Open Land Trust will provide local communities with the help they need to retain open space for all of us to enjoy."

The grants, administered by the Department of Natural Resources, provide up to 50 percent state funding assistance for approved property acquisition projects. The maximum grant award for a single project is $2 million.

Local project sponsors may be any unit of local government with statutory authority to acquire, develop and maintain land for public outdoor, natural resource related recreation.

"Individuals and organizations involved in natural resource and open space conservation can participate in partnership with eligible local government agencies on Open Land Trust grant applications," Manning said. "Public support and private donations can enhance open space government, park or forest preserve district about this program."

Grants are awarded on a competitive basis and are paid as reimbursements to local sponsors. Property may be acquired only from willing sellers.

Land acquired through the program must be maintained in perpetuity for public open space and natural resource recreation purposes through the signing of a conservation easement. Allowable activities may include birdwatching and wildlife viewing, boating, fishing, hunting, hiking, bicycling, horseback riding and primitive camping.

Applications will be evaluated based on the project's ability to meet statewide and local recreation and conservation needs, site characteristics and the applicant's past performance on IDNR grant projects.

The application deadline for the first round of the Open Land Trust grant program is April 3. For more information, contact the IDNR Division of Grant Administration, 524 S. Second St., Springfield, IL 62701-1787, call (217) 782-7481.

Camp Fire Boys/Girls celebrate Kid Day

Camp Fire Boys and Girls celebrates Absolutely Incredible Kid Day 2000 on March 16. Each year on the third Thursday of March, children across the country receive heartwarming messages from moms, dads, grandparents, brothers and sisters, mentors and celebrities, to recognize the fact that each child is indeed an Absolutely Incredible Kid.

"Writing a letter to a child is a simple action that means so much to the children as well as to the letter writers," says Metropolitan Chicago Council president Marianne Hiland. "There is something wonderful about putting feelings in writing. What a great way to let kids know we believe in them. Besides, a personal letter is cherished and valued, and a novelty in today's technological world."

The Metropolitan Chicago Council of Camp Fire, one of the 125 Camp Fire councils throughout the country, serves over 5,200 children each year in Cook, Lake and McHenry Counties by offering children kindergarten to grade 12 a club program, self-reliance classes, and special events in schools, parks, and community centers. All Camp Fire programs develop life skills, engage youth in community service projects, and decrease their risk of delinquency.

"Camp Fire Boys and Girls created Absolutely Incredible Kid Day because we were looking for a way to honor all youth," says Stewart Smith, national executive director of Camp Fire Boys and Girls. "Our hope is that parents, relatives, teachers, coaches, and friends share positive messages year-round, but this is a call to action that specifically asks adults to put the words in writing, to create a memorable keepsake."

Corporations, shopping malls, religious congregations, businesses, and organizations nationwide (and locally) support Absolutely Incredible Kid Day through letter-writing campaigns on-site or as employee/member activities. Cities and states across the nation proclaim the third Thursday of March Absolutely Incredible Kid Day, including the State of Illinois, the City of Chicago, and many of the surrounding suburbs. President Bill Clinton has written an Absolutely Incredible Kid Day letter to the children of the United States each year since AIKD's inception in 1996. Numerous service organizations have taken on the job of writing Absolutely Incredible Kid Day letters to children in hospitals, shelters, and care facilities.

Camp Fire Boys and Girls created "Letters from the Heart: A Celebration of Letters to Absolutely Incredible Kids" to celebrate Absolutely Incredible Kid Day and the impact it is having on lives of children and adults everywhere. We estimate hundreds of thousands of letters have been sent during the last four years, and the book is a 100-page compilation of touching letters. "Letters from the Heart" will be available in March 2000 through retail outlets or by visiting Camp Fire Boys and Girls web site at www.campfire.org.

Camp Fire Boys and Girls builds caring, confident youth and future leaders. This Mission is manifested by programs such as Absolutely Incredible Kid Day, Valentines for Veterans, and local community service projects.

Now in its fourth year, Absolutely Incredible Kid Day has touched the hearts of millions of children. The goal of the campaign is to honor children—not only those involved in Camp Fire Boys and Girls—but every child in America.

Health Tip for a Healthy Trip

by JIM WARNKEN, President, North Star Travel, Inc.

There isn't anything more disappointing than getting sick on your vacation. Here are some tips to help avoid illness while traveling.

Pre-trip planning is your first step to a healthy trip. Immunizations, though seldom required anymore, should be gotten well in advance. Certain shots can cause adverse side effects, which are better chanced while still at home, rather than on your trip.

Stock up on frequently-used pharmaceutical products, such as aspirin, stomach aids, etc. Band-Aids are not only valuable for cuts, but also for the inevitable blisters, which will occur on feet not used to excessive walking.

If you take medication on a regular basis, check with your doctor to see if the dosage should be adjusted for altitude, long plane flights, or unusual climates.

If you suffer from motion sickness, your doctor can prescribe a type of patch worn behind the ear. However, I have had excellent experience with a non-drug item called a "Sea-Band." It's a band worn around the wrist, exerting pressure on an acupuncture point.

"Don't drink the water" is still good advice, even if the trip is just to Florida. Sensitive stomachs will find that normally harmless bacteria in certain water supplies will do some real nasty things. This also applies to ice cubes in bar drinks. Freezing does not kill bacteria, nor does alcohol.

Canned pop, hot coffee, and tea are your safest drinks. Avoid dairy products in any form. Pasteurization is still not practiced worldwide.

What health problem has ruined more vacations than any other? Sunburn. The sun is much stronger in Florida than back in the midwest. Higher altitudes can also be a factor in sunburn, something to remember in Reno.

Common sense and a little planning will assure a healthy vacation.

The 13-year-old girls division was won by Renee Riedel and the boys by Taylor Pechauer. Fourteen-year-old champions were Amanda Axe in the girls bracket and Brandon Ziemann in the boys. Each contestant was allowed 15 free-throw attempts in the contests. Ties were settled by successive rounds of five free-throws per contestant until a winner emerged.

Each of these winners will compete in the district competition to be held on Feb. 12 at St. Joseph's in Round Lake with an eye toward moving on to the Regional, State and International levels.

Head for the hills

Today's youth are such spoiled, over-indulged whimps. As a kid, winter's first significant snow fall was a cherished event. My siblings and I would lay awake in our beds on those winter morning, waiting for the ultimate dream: a snow day. It seems back then we had a lot more snow, or maybe that was just the innocence of viewing life from the eyes of a youngster. Of course had it been a normal "off to school you go" kind of morning, we would reluctantly pull ourselves out from under our quilts and shuffle off to prepare for the day.

But on those "snow days," we would bound out of bed and into long underwear quicker than mom could tussle our hair. The minutes raced by as we dressed in old wool socks, two pairs of mittens, snow pants, boots and the soon-to-be discarded scarf. (Once out of sight from the kitchen window, the scarf became the rope that tied your sled to your best buddy's so you could go down the hill in tandem.)

We would return home only to replace wet mittens and socks, which mom kept putting in the dryer for the next change. We would wax up the metal runners on our sleds using mom's good candles, and those grand old wooden toboggans held at least eight kids at a time.

We invented new games and took precarious chances like trying to guide a two-foot wide sled through a one-and-a-half foot opening between two older-than-dirt oak trees. We would travel down the snow laden hill on sleds piled three and four people high, and we all lived by the golden rule: "Never, ever walk up the trail."

Sledding has remained one of my favorite winter time hobbies. After the last snow fall, the kids and I dressed in our overly-insulated outerwear and were ready to hit the hills.

I was prepared to skip dinner and sled till every fiber on my DNA was frozen. After the first time down the powdery white fluff, complete with a face full of fresh snow, child number one proceeded to walk right up the freshly made trail. I about had a coronary, and screaming like an old fish woman I howled, "You never walk up the trail." All the kids looked at me like I had three eyes on my forehead.

The second ride down brought moans that the sled was too heavy to carry, so I dragged up the flimsy piece of blue plastic they call sleds. After the third ride down, the old fuss-budgets were whining how tired they were, and wanted me to pull them up the hill; they were worn out. I stood at the bottom of the hill, my sails totally deflated.

I closed my eyes, trying to keep my wits, and pictured my dad stringing make-shift lights up so my siblings and I could see once the sun set and our sledding day carried over into the night hours. As I opened my eyes and saw my offspring standing there, dressed in their well insulated garb, not the least bit cold, wet or numb, I shook my head to clear away the nasty thoughts, and ushered them all back into the house. I returned to the hill. For awhile they all stood in the window and watched their loony mom, praying none of their friends would stop by and witness this sight.

Eventually they lost interest and went about their business. I, myself, missed dinner that night but my kids missed a lot more.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

It's sure to be chili!

The bad news is that it will probably be quite brisk a week from Saturday when the crazy die-hards hit to the links, partaking in the Annual Chili Open at Brae Loch Golf Course, located off Route 45 by The College of Lake County in Grayslake.

The good news, however, is that if it hasn't been sensed already, golf will be played here in February. Which shouldn't come as any surprise—I played in some pretty inclement weather over my 27 years of withstanding abuse from this silly game.

Anyone and everyone is invited to come and tackle old man winter to the tune of nine holes, which will be preceded by an all-you-can-eat chili lunch.

The event, sponsored in conjunction with Lake County Forest Preserves, will feature take home door prizes and awards as well as special prizes for the Best Dressed Dapper and Daffy Duffers.

The entry fee is only $25 with pre-paid registration required. Call (847) 223-5542 to reserve your four-some.

Now, for the less inclined to encounter those snow bunkers, prevailing winds, there is relief!

And it can be found, yes, at an indoor venue known as the Chicago Golf Show, the nation's oldest, largest and best golf exhibition.

The event, in its 17th year, will be held February 11-13 at the Rosemont Convention Center in Rosemont.

Perhaps one of the main attractions forecasted for this year will be a New Club Swing Area.

Not only can you swing the latest in equipment heading into the new campaign, golfers will also be able to actually hit golf balls in this area free of charge.

And as usual, PGA and LPGA Professionals will be on hand assisting perspective buyers with equipment that best suits their swings, with one-on-one instruction also available.

Tom Corcoran, managing partner of the show, says that the New Club Swing Area is so popular that club manufacturers for 2000 have contracted for their own individual hitting areas to demonstrate their brands of clubs.

A long drive and Chicago's Longest Putt Contest will also highlight the schedule.

The golf show will feature more than 300 exhibiting companies offering every golf product and service under the sun.

From golf equipment—clubs, balls, shoes, clothing, etc.—to golf vacations will be on hand for the some 20,000-plus avid golfers who visit this annual gala every year.

The First Tee Welcome Area will await golfers, where they will be able to register to win valuable prizes, from trips to dinners to golf equipment.

Interested parties can obtain more information by calling (312) 541-0567 or visit the website at www.chicagogolfshow.com.

There's definitely something for everyone. Get a jump on the season—it will be here before you know it. For some of us, it actually never ended and never will.

Sequoit gymnasts continue excitement for first-year coach

Bessette named NSC Co-Coach of The Year

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Debbie Bessette didn't know what to expect in her first year as head coach of the Antioch varsity girls gymnastics team.

One given though is that the native of Holland, who herself is quite an accomplished gymnast, has seen some excitement.

And from the looks of things, more is in store for next week and definitely next year.

"It's been very exciting and we're very happy to have two girls qualify for sectionals," said Bessette, who was honored as the North Suburban Conference co-Coach of The Year following Saturday's conference meet at Libertyville.

"Most of my experience has been with younger kids, so to have my first coaching job (with older girls) is very exciting as well as rewarding."

Well, Bessette can be very proud of her Sequoits, who have made major strides this season.

Last Saturday was a prime example.

That's when Antioch turned in a solid fourth-place effort in the North Suburban meet.

Freshman Jenna Diemer earned all-conference honors after taking third in the uneven parallel bars, where she recorded a score of 9.200. Diemer also finished 15th in the vault (9.00), 10th in the balance beam (8.80), and 18th in the floor exercise (8.40), giving her seventh place in the all-around with a score of 35.40.

Senior Cami Hackney also turned in a solid meet, finishing 13th in the all-around (34.20).

Her evening included eighth in the floor (8.90), 10th in the beam (8.80), 18th in the bars (8.30), and 24th in the vault (8.20).

Junior Jackie Cerney finished 16th in the all-around (33.850). Her outing included sixth in the vault (9.250), 16th in the bars (8.40), 17th in the beam (8.00), and 21st in the floor exercise (8.20).

Others contributing to the team score included sophomore Liz

The Antioch varsity girls gymnastics team has given first-year coach Debbie Bessette (middle row, far left) and assistant Noreen Johnson (middle row, far right) a lot to be excited about. The team consists of (in no order) Jenna Diemer, Liz Miedona, Cami Hackney, Jackie Cerney, Becky Geyer, Ashley Myers, Angela Loi, Candace Cassara, Sharon Gray, Aubrey Goetzinger, and Robin Deckert. Miedona, who's best effort was a 20th in the bars (8.20). She wound up 23rd in the all-around.

Freshman all-arounder Becky Geyer turned in an 8.10 in the vault, a 7.70 in the bars, a 6.450 in the beam, and a 7.30 in the floor to finish 21st in the all-around (29.550).

Meanwhile, the JV girls finished fifth in Saturday's meet.

The Sequoits were led by Ashley Myers, who finished ninth in the all-around (25.200). Myers' best efforts were in the beam (6.50), where she placed 15th, and the bars (5.80), which earned her 16th place.

Other top efforts were turned in by Robyn Deckert, Angela Loi, and Candace Cassara in the vault. Deckert added a 21st place finish in the bars.

Diemer and Hackney carried their fortunes over to Tuesday's Stevenson regional, where, as a team, the Sequoits finished third out of five teams with 131.175 points.

The first-place team along with the top five individuals in each event qualify for next Tuesday's Stevenson sectional. At-large berths, both team and individual, will be determined by the end of this week.

"We had a couple of falls on the balance beam, but overall, I thought we did a really nice job tonight," said Bessette.

Diemer became the school's first all-around sectional qualifier, finishing fifth with a cumulative score of 34.90 (8.726 avg.).

In her travels, she finished third in the bars (9.00), ninth in the vault (8.650) and floor exercise (8.60), and fifth in the beam (8.750).

"She's had a great season," noted Bessette. "We're very excited to have the first all-arounder in the school's history going to sectionals." Diemer will be joined by Hackney, who qualified in the beam after tying her teammate for fifth place with an 8.750.

Hackney just missed qualifying as an all-arounder, finishing seventh with a total score of 32.325 (8.56 avg.).

The senior added an eighth-place effort in the bars (8.30) followed by 11th in the 8.450) and sixth in the floor exercise (8.750).

Others contributing to the team score included: Cerney, who finished 10th in the all-around (32.325); Geyer, who was 13th in the all-around (29.00); and, Miedona, who earned 16th in the all-around (27.850).

Cerney's top individual events were seventh in the vault (8.875), 10th in the bars (8.100), and 12th in the floor (8.150).

Miedona was 12th in the bars (7.800) while Geyer's top effort was in the 14th in the vault (8.050).

No doubt, these Sequoits are one of the up-and-coming teams in the area.

"We have a different mixture of girls, from the experienced to girls who are in their first year out," said Bessette.

"The level of experience doesn't matter because the work ethic is tremendous. They all are very dedicated and show up to practice and work very hard every day."

And from the looks of it, she's right!

Poor field-goal shooting continues to haunt Sequoits

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Consistency and poor field-goal shooting have been thorns in the Antioch varsity boys basketball team's side thus far in the season.

After posting a convincing 58-49 victory in the North Suburban opener some two months ago, the Zion-Benton Zee-Bees had a little revenge on their minds Friday night.

Well, it payed off for Zion to the tune of a 58-46 decision and it was all because of defense. The loss the sixth consecutive in conference for Antioch, which fell to 9-11 overall and 3-6 in league play.

"They played a different defense as opposed to the first time we played—one that we weren't accustomed to," said head coach Jeff Dresser. "Give coach (Don Kloth) a lot of credit. Zion had a good game plan tonight."

The defense Dresser is referring to is the triangle-and-two, which basically saw Zion fall back off of the perimeter.

"We expected more pressure from them," added Dresser. "But they have the team speed as to where they can play that way. We did have a lot of good looks but just couldn't get anything to fall."

Antioch shot just 34 percent from the field for the game, much to the dismay of Dresser.

"You're not going to win many games shooting like that," the coach said. "Our two main scorers (Don Lackey and Eric White) were shut down, forcing others to step it up. And that didn't happen."

White led the hosts with a sub-par 11 point-effort while Lackey tallied eight. Ari Brown also experienced shooting woes, finishing with nine points and Brandon White chipped in with seven.

Zion pretty much put the game out of reach after an 8-0 run in the second quarter vaulted them to a 12-point lead as Antioch was never able to recover.

"We weren't getting many second chances," noted Dresser.

Incidentally, we'd like to wish guard Adam Durham a speedy recovery. Durham had surgery Wednesday on his right shoulder, which he separated in the Rockford Christmas Tournament.

And, senior soccer star Matt Miclea was honored at halftime of the varsity game. Miclea, who played an instrumental role in the Sequoits 17-4-3 season, was named All-State and All-Midwest. He broke eight school records, including goals scored for a single-season (32).

"He's obviously a great athlete and has been a very important part of the program," said athletic director Steve Schoenfelder. "But even more of a testament to that is how much composure and character he displays."

Head coach Charlie Trout attested.

"He's definitely one of the best we've had here," the coach said. "He's the only one to be named All-Midwest, which basically boils down to he is one of the top 15 players in the state."

TAX TIPS FROM JACKSON HEWITT: FILING STATUS

• END OF YEAR

Your filing status depends on whether you are married or unmarried on December 31st of a tax year. If you live apart from your spouse and meet certain tests, you may be considered unmarried for the entire year. If you are divorced under a final decree by the last day of the year, you are considered unmarried for the entire year.

• ANNULLED MARRIAGES

If you obtain an annulment that declares your marriage never existed, you are considered unmarried for this and any previous tax year. You must amend your tax returns for all the tax years not affected by the statute of limitations for filing a return to show this change in marital status.

• HEAD OF HOUSEHOLD

Single or separated taxpayers should check to see if they qualify for head of household filing status. This filing status allows a taxpayer to take a higher standard deduction, possibly be eligible for a lower tax bracket and perhaps qualify for the earned income credit.

Erom Tupperware to lingerie, you can buy a lot these days without even leaving your home—and without using the Internet. Home parties are more prevalent than ever it seems. Why do people choose this method of shopping over a store? What would compel someone to invite over a bunch of friends and co-workers to their home to look at crystal? Is there more to these parties than meets the eye?

Nancy Drabek co-hosted a Princess House home party in January with her friend Gail Smith. "When I went to the party [at an acquaintance's home], I realized that I like the product so well," explained Drabek.

After the Princess House consultant, Stacy Mariano, explained the hostess benefits, Drabek suggested to Smith that the two should host a party of their own.

At the party, the women were given crystal necklace thank-you gifts by Mariano that they can add to as their friends book parties. Drabek was confident that there would be bookings at her party. "It's a nice product, that's why you can book it," she said.

One incentive to host a home party is that the consultant usually offers special prices on the merchandise for the hostess, as well as exclusive merchandise only available to those who host a party. Many of the women at the party in Drabek's Fox Lake home had their eyes on the Princess Heritage Deluxe Cake Plate, which was only available to hostesses who made three or more bookings during their own party.

Julie Davis of Lakemoor was at Drabek's party because the party was booked off of Davis' party last year. For attending the party at Drabek's, Davis received some crystal beads to add to her hostess necklace.

When asked why she had her party, Davis said, "In the first place, it was a good way to introduce myself to the neighborhood."

She added that the discounted and free product was also an incentive for her to host the party in her home.

"It's cool stuff," Davis said of the Princess House merchandise, "stuff that you can use. It's pretty versatile."

Many of the home party businesses offer quality products that are difficult to find anywhere else, with guarantees unlike any store.

Mike Thielsen of McHenry attended Drabek's party because co-host Smith is his sister. "I've been wanting to buy crystal wine glasses, so I was able to get them [at the party]."

Heather Ward of Tinley Park is planning a PartyLite candle party, "because it's stuff you can't get in the stores, it's high quality and you can get deals." Ward said she wants to see the new catalog offerings.

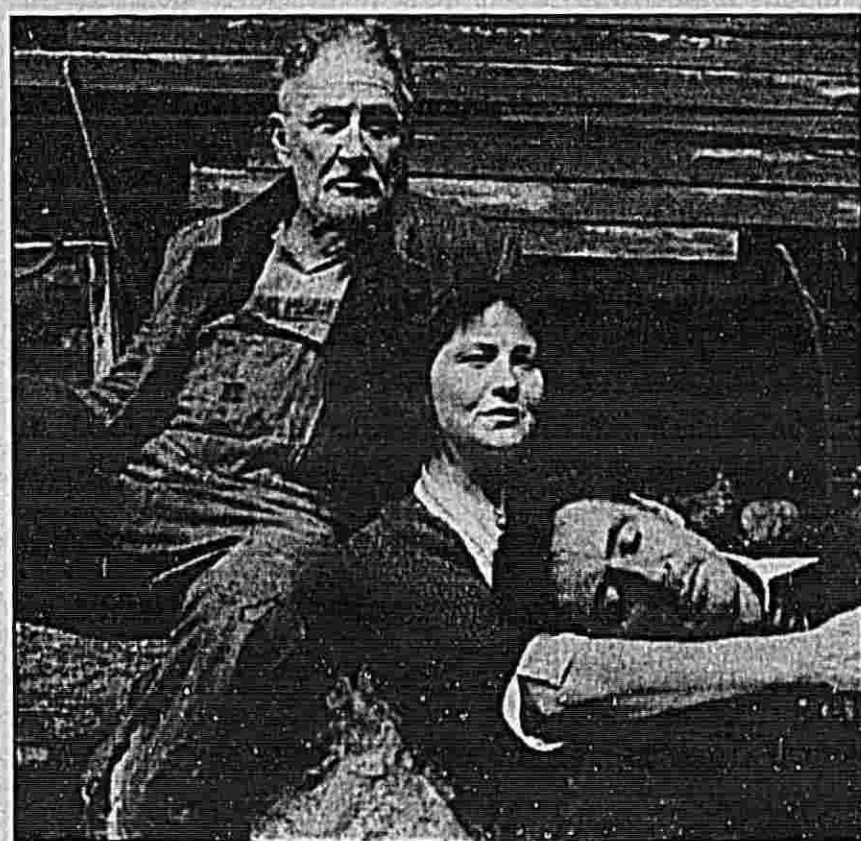

Also at the parties, consultants give tips on use of the products, as well as cleaning and storage advice. This is one benefit of buying at a home party that you won't find in many stores.

PartyLite consultant Melissa Erickson of Deerfield shares many tips at her candle parties.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

'Moon for the Misbegotten' a shining O'Neill revival

Alcoholism, promiscuity and are recurrent themes in the works of Eugene O'Neill, and he touches them all in his final, masterful play, "A Moon for the Misbegotten."

The bittersweet drama, under Daniel Sullivan's exacting direction, fares well in a strong revival at Chicago's Goodman Theatre ahead of its Broadway run in March. It doesn't hurt that he has rounded up three very strong leads: Gabriel Byrne, Cherry Jones and Ray Dotrice.

Set in 1923, the story, in simplest terms, captures Phil Hogan, a cantankerous, scheming Connecticut pig farmer as he plots to retain the land he has leased for two decades from the Tyrone family. He enlists his outspoken daughter Josie to set a trap to seduce James Tyrone Jr., a man broken by alcohol and drowning in grief over the cherished mother he lost.

O'Neill's characterization runs deep, entwined with rich poetic prose. And we find that Tyrone (Byrne, in a stunning performance) is not only besotted with booze—but with certain romantic feelings for Josie (Jones), who, despite the shady reputation she has cultivated, is full of nurturing love for Tyrone. Dotrice is feisty and slick as the aging father.

And Jones and Byrne soar in a magnificent cathartic moonlit scene in which their characters each share their innermost secrets, however late in the game.

Set designer Eugene Lee's ramshackle farmhouse, resting next to oversized boulder, effectively sets the hard-scrabble tone.

If 21st century is a dot come-on, he's not coming

Mr. Bear was grumpy. "I don't think I'm going to like this 21st century," he growled at the end of last Sunday's Super Bowl telecast. "Because if I hear ONE MORE commercial say the words 'dot com' ... I'M GOING TO (expletives deleted)!!!"

Yes, folks, Mr. Bear, also known as my hubby, had gotten a little worked up, and it sure wasn't about the game. After all, up until the fourth quarter, the action in this latest Super Bowl could have been compared to the excitement you might experience at a turtle race sponsored by the makers of Valium. If it weren't for the tight ends, I know I'd have been snoring. And despite Mr. Bear's love of football, having played it himself back in his glory days in high school and college, this Super Bowl had nearly sent even him into hibernation.

But those darn dot com-commercials... now there was something that really made him sit up and roar, especially during half-time. "DOT

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

COM THIS! DOT COM THAT! WHAT IS WITH ALL THIS (expletive deleted) DOT COM (expletive deleted) GRRRRRRRR!"

Now, don't fret, people. The kids were out of earshot. And it wasn't as though he has never seen any dot com-commercials—he's done his share of growling about them before. However, I don't think we TV viewers have ever been subjected to as many of those types of ads in as short a time period as we were during the Super Bowl. In football terms, it was a "dot com-ikaze blitz."

And to make it worse, not only were those ads about dot com-companies most of us have never heard of, they were apparently created by ad people whose brains are dot comatose. Why? Because the majority of the dot come-ons aired that night were neither informative nor even dot com-ical. They were pretty dot-dumb, for lack of another irritating dot com-bination.

In other words, where is a good old talking beer lizard when you need one?

You see, grumpy or not, my husband had a point. But like any good spouse, I didn't tell HIM that. I didn't want those stupid ads to ruin the progress I'd been making with him. Why, just last week, he had actually surfed the Internet for the first time alone. Of course, he got lost because he didn't know how to click on the "back" button, but it was still progress. Not only that, he had even become the proud owner of his own e-mail address and e-mail box, which was already filling up on a daily basis with porno messages from people he'd never met.

Hey—there's a drawback to everything. (Or not, depending on your point of view.)

I suppose I could have just left him behind in the 20th century, grumbling about the way things "used to be." But I figured he was only grumbling because it was strange to him, just the way I would grumble if he handed me a tool belt and a hammer and told me to build a wall. So I'd been pulling him along slowly, trying to get him to take baby steps in the world that goes by the address "dot com."

That is, until the darn "Dot Com Bowl" sent him into dot combat.

"DOT COM! DOT COM! GRRRRRR!" growled Mr. Bear.

Now, in order to keep him from regressing to his pre-computerized state, I was forced to defend all those stupid dot com-commercials.

"Oh, c'mon, honey. Get with it. They're just names, no different than Nike or Budweiser."

"No they're NOT like Nike or Budweiser. They all sound the same... DOT COM. DOT COM. DOT COM. GRRRRRR!"

This was not going to be easy.

"Listen, you can't live in the past. You sound like your Mom. She's still mad about Pearl Harbor."

He just looked at me and growled.

The next morning, he was outside warming up his truck. Suddenly, he popped his head inside the back door.

"Hah! Guess what? I just heard John Records Landecker on the radio complaining about the stupid dot com stuff. See? I'm not the only one."

"Okay, that makes two of you," I told him. "You and John Landecker on the OLDIES station. Two oldies grumbling about dot coms. Face it—the world is changing whether you like it or not."

"GRRRRRR!"

I'm guessing that means "not."

PARTY

"It's important because a lot of people really don't know how to take care of their candles," she explained. She also tries to share creative ideas that people may not have thought of before.

Christine Span of Round Lake Beach said, "The tips help everybody save time in the kitchen, and that's the whole basis of Pampered Chef, to help you save time and money."

A consultant for Pampered Chef, Span pointed out that time is the one thing that cannot be bought, so she shares tips at her home kitchen shows that advise guests on how to get through a dinner party, how to utilize kitchen tools for more than one use, and how to save money and time through investment cooking. "I share tips because people like to hear the easier way and the quicker way to do something,"

she said.

In the end, the one thing everyone seemed to agree on was that the home party is a good excuse to get together.

"It's a girls' night out," commented Sue Stark of Bloomingdale, who attended Drabek's party.

Fran Ehredt of Gurnee agreed, "That's the whole concept, getting out and socializing without children."

Ehredt said, "I think I've been to every possible home party in the past 15 years. I enjoy going to them."

"My husband had plans and I didn't, so I came," Ward explained. "I had nothing to do [on this Saturday night]."

When Erickson first hosted a PartyLite party, before she became a consultant, she did it for the social aspect. "It's a great reason to get a whole bunch of your friends together in one room and chit-chat," she explained. She sees selling the candles as an added bonus to the fun she has at the parties.

Erickson recently had a party where her hostess purposely invited her neighbors that she did not know. "She called it a 'Get to Know Your Neighbor' party," said Erickson.

And many of them are definitely parties. Drabek's party showcased the Princess House margarita glasses, with guests enjoying several pitchers of the drink along with tortilla chips and other snacks. Pampered Chef shows demonstrate the kitchen tools by preparing a delicious dish for all to enjoy.

Whether it's the free merchandise, the party atmosphere or the cooking tips, the popularity of the home party continues to grow. This opportunity to spend time with neighbors and friends offers a personal touch to catalog shopping as well as a fun night out.

Titanic docks at Museum

They saw it for the last time on that tragic night in April 1912. On Feb. 18, you can see it for the first time when the Museum of Science and Industry, Chicago, with RMS Titanic Inc. and SFX Family Entertainment, launch a one-of-a-kind Titanic exhibition.

More than 200 artifacts from the Titanic's wreckage are featured in the exhibit, including a selection of White Star Line dishware, a handwritten letter and one of the ship's portholes. The largest piece on display is a 13-ton portion of the Titanic's hull. Measuring 13 by 20 feet, it is the largest piece of Titanic that will, in all likelihood, ever be recovered from the wreckage.

Guests can relive the history and drama of Titanic by viewing recreated rooms on board the ship including the grand staircase, an elegant first-class cabin, a third-class cabin and the engine room. Memorable stories are told as guests encounter the memorial section and learn the fate of passengers and crew or place their hands on a giant wall of ice—four degrees warmer than the Atlantic Ocean that cold April night.

The Museum of Science and Industry will display Titanic: The Exhibition from Feb. 18 to Sept. 4. For more information or to purchase advanced tickets call 773-684-1414, Ext. 2500.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

Don't get caught up in the moment when reminiscing with an acquaintance. He or she is trying to distract you from something important. Pay attention to what's going on. That special someone asks for your advice. Be honest with him or her—even if what you have to say won't be appreciated. Gemini plays a key role.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Try to keep your temper under control when having a discussion with a close friend. He or she isn't ready to hear your opinion. Therefore, don't give it. Speaking your mind only will cause friction between the two of you. A loved one offers you some romantic advice. Take it.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

Take your time when it comes to finishing an important project this week. A lot of people are counting on you to do this right. So, don't rush through it, and be sure to check your work. Your diligence will be rewarded. A close friend takes you out late in the week. Enjoy yourself!

Cancer - June 22/July 22

You're in for a big change this week, Cancer. Don't be nervous; this is something that you've been wanting to happen. Share your excitement with those closest to you. An acquaintance asks to speak with you. Say yes, because he or she really needs someone to talk with. Sagittarius plays an important role on Thursday.

Leo - July 23/August 23

When it comes to your career, don't be afraid to ask the higher-ups for something that you really need. Just stay calm, and present your case logically. If you can do this, they're sure to be on your side. You meet someone interesting late in the week. Get to know him or her better, because this could be the one.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

Don't worry about a loved one who gets into trouble early in the week, Virgo. This person needs to handle the situation on his or her own. The person whom you've been seeing wants to intensify your relationship. Before saying yes, think about what you really want. This may not be it.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't let an argument with an acquaintance spoil your good mood this week,

Libra. He or she is trying to get you upset. Don't let that happen. Just try to ignore this person. A loved one asks you for advice about a personal matter. Be honest.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

Try to be more attentive to a loved one this week, Scorpio. He or she is going through a difficult time and needs someone to talk to. Be there for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated. A business acquaintance wants to get to know you better. Don't get involved with this person, because he or she has an ulterior motive.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

You get blamed for a problem at work. Instead of getting upset and going on the defensive, just help to rectify the situation. The higher-ups know the truth and won't reprimand you for something that you didn't do. A close friend reveals his or her true feelings for you. Let this person know how you really feel, too.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

You have a lot to do this week, Capricorn. So, try not to let others distract you. Stay focused, and work diligently. That's the only way to get things done. Don't worry—you'll have plenty of time to relax and enjoy yourself this weekend. Cancer plays a key role on Wednesday.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

Don't bite off more than you can chew early in the week. You already have several things that you need to get done. Don't take on more responsibility. A loved one needs your help with a family matter this weekend. Do what you can for him or her.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Go after what you want this week, Pisces. If you don't, you'll never get it, because no one is going to give it to you. Don't be nervous; you deserve this. A good friend turns to you for help. Be there for him or her. Leo plays an important role.

No silver lining for gray 'Angela's Ashes'

When I look back on my childhood, I wonder how my brothers and I managed to survive at all. It was, of course, a miserable childhood: the happy childhood is hardly worth your while. Worse than the ordinary miserable childhood is the miserable Irish childhood, and worse yet is the miserable Irish Catholic childhood."

These lines, said by the narrator at the start of Angela's Ashes, set the tone for the dark look into the Irish condition in the 1930s and 40s.

Based on the best-selling memoir of author Frank McCourt, the movie follows the author's family

movie review

through their struggles to survive in the impoverished Emerald Isle, which definitely does not live up to its nickname through the eye of director Alan Parker.

Ireland was not a good place to be in the 1930s. Famine and unemployment caused many to flee the island to seek a better life in the United States.

However, the McCourt family does the exact opposite, deciding to move from New York City to Ireland after the death of their newborn baby.

Both the country's problems and the family's problems continually hold the McCourt's down. Father Malachy (Robert Carlyle) cannot find a job. When he does, he spends his paychecks on alcohol. His addiction holds him back doubly when he loses jobs because he cannot wake up for them.

Mother Angela (Emily Watson) is continually trying to deal with her husband's downfalls. But she has troubles of her own, as she tries to keep her hopes up while having to beg for her family's survival.

Through all this, there is the eldest son Frank, played by three actors: Joe Breen, Ciaran Owens and Michael Legge; each portraying different stages in the young boy's life. As the movie's protagonist, Frank tries to break free of his father's shadow without breaking ties with his family.

Throughout the movie, Parker bluntly illustrates the hardships that the McCourt family went through. None of the events that occur are ever explained, leaving the viewer quite depressed by the end of the movie.

This movie does not have plot in the conventional sense of term.

There is definitely a series of conflicts that drive the story, but never a moment of release, never a catharsis that resolves the problems or even explains why they exist. The problems are just there. This tactic left me with mixed feelings about the movie.

On one hand, the way this movie is presented is starkly realistic. Parker shows that he is a director who can present something with unforgiving realism, who can ignore the trappings of explanations, and who can tell a story without forcing sympathy on the viewer.

But on the other hand, this stark realism and unsympathetic style in the movie leaves the viewer with no sympathy for the characters, as well. They are portrayed as victims, as people who are tortured by this unknown force and do nothing to save themselves.

In The Commitments, a Parker film that tackles the same issues as this movie, the characters are in the same position, but they do something to elevate themselves, in social status, then in their own minds. They give themselves a reason to live. In Angela's Ashes, this never comes across. The characters seem to struggle and struggle only to struggle some more.

Even Frank, who seems to want to rise above this tedious life, fails in my mind.

I think it was brave of Parker to approach this movie the way he did, but unfortunately the character's, despite some wonderful acting, did not have any redeeming qualities to them, and therefore, neither did the movie. I give Angela's Ashes three popcorn boxes because of the realism. It would have been more had the realism opened the door to good characters.

Young Frank (Joe Breen) and Young Malachy (Shane Murray Corcoran) make their way past jeering kids in Paramount's Angela's Ashes.

THEATRE REVIEW

Triumphant return of 'Joseph' to Marriott

Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" was one of Andrew Lloyd Weber's first rock operas. This lively biblical tale has enjoyed greater success the second time around.

In fact, Joseph is visiting Marriott after almost 20 years and he and his fellow "reborn" biblical characters are just as "amazing" as they were then and watching and listening to them traverse the entire musical gamut from rock, to country, to calypso and cabaret with equal alacrity adds up to an enjoyable musical evening with opening night's audience giving the cast a standing ovation.

Marriott's singing and dancing ensemble steals the show whether they're rocking with "Go, go go Joseph," or hilariously emoting in such show stoppers as "Those Canaan Days." One of these is Rob Rahn whom we have enjoyed in 100 of Marriott's best.

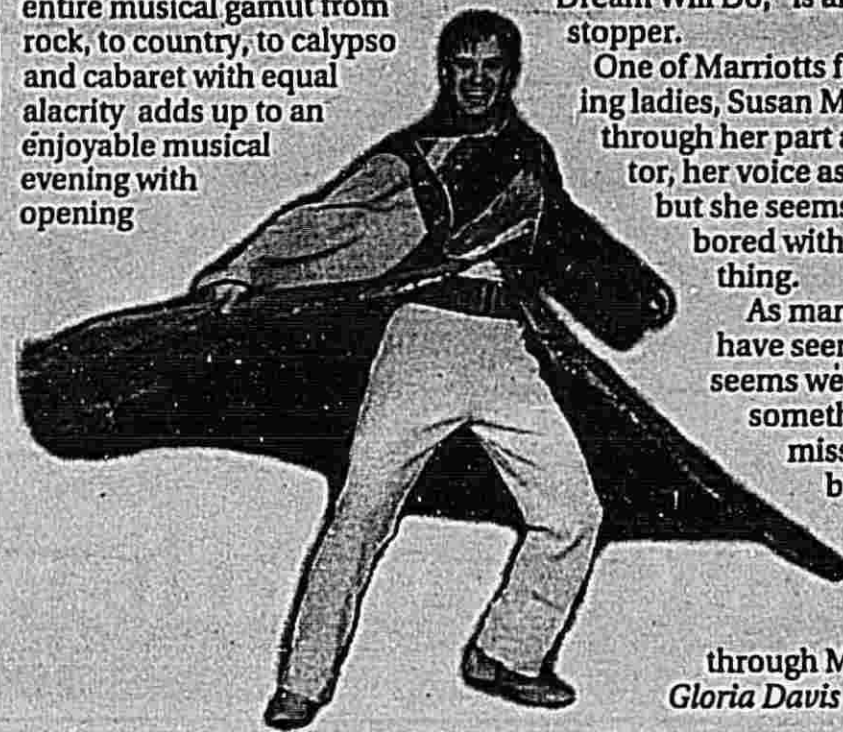

Danny Gurwin's Joseph is likeable and his rendition of "Any Dream Will Do," is another show-stopper.

One of Marriott's favorite leading ladies, Susan Moniz glides through her part as the narrator, her voice as good as ever, but she seems to be a little bored with the whole thing.

As many times as we have seen the show, it seems we discover something we missed seeing before.

"Joseph" is a family show running through March 26.—By Gloria Davis

Danny Gurwin stars in "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" at The Marriott Theatre in Lincolnshire, running through March 26.

EuroBistro authentic continental dining

The EuroBistro restaurant welcomes a new head chef, with a wide variety of backgrounds and ready to meet the American and European dining tastes. He is Roy Roman. He comes to the Fox Lake restaurant after working for some of the more well-known establishments in the Chicago area.

Roman has a loyal following, including some at this Monday afternoon lunch hour. His specialties cross both North American and European tastes.

New on Jan. 2 will be a Sunday Champagne brunch from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. A Saturday brunch will be offered from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. A daily luncheon buffet will be served Monday through Friday.

If you are too busy to go on a vacation, yet it's the continental atmosphere and taste of European food you long for, pay a visit to the EuroBistro Restaurant and Deli, at 164 S. Rte. 12 in Fox Lake. EuroBistro has many delectable examples of American Cuisine on its menu, but it's the European flavor that has people flocking to the restaurant with casual continental decor, owned and operated by Roman and Sophia Susfal.

Their many years in the food service business has taught them that customers want good food, served in a comfortable and attractive atmosphere, by a friendly, yet professional staff. Of course EuroBistro offers a different lunch and dinner special every day. After a cozy bowl of homemade French onion, mushroom or potato soup, try their Polish sausage and potato pancakes. For dinner, a Polish Plate filled with dumplings, Polish sausage, sauerkraut, mashed potatoes and blintzes is a popular menu item. Every Friday there's a sumptuous fish fry featuring fresh fried haddock. With the holiday party season upon us, remember EuroBistro has a terrific party menu serving 10 to 50 family style starting at $6.95 per person, as well as convenient carryouts. Make party reservations early!

EuroBistro is open from 11 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., Sunday through Thursday, and from 11 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Call (847) 973-1800 for more information.

Stretch it out — The stretches you need to get flexible and fit

When it comes to fitness regimens, stretching usually comes in a distant third — behind aerobics and strength training — probably because it isn't directly associated with weight loss or dramatic changes in appearance. Yet without a good stretch, all your hard work at the gym would not be complete. Stretching before and after physical activity will not only help prevent injury, but can also improve sports performance by increasing your range of motion and improving your coordination.

Even if you aren't going to get a full workout, spending 20 minutes a day stretching can have a wonderful effect on your general well-being. It will free your body of muscular tension, improve circulation and enhance muscle tone. Stretching now will also help you avoid some of the unpleasant hallmarks of aging, such as decreased flexibility, poor balance and stiff joints. Best of all, stretching makes you feel good.

Before you begin stretching, read the tips below to learn how to get the most from your exercise.

Stretching Dos and Don'ts:

Stretch as often as you can — three to five times a week is recommended.

Remember to stretch after you work out. Many people think stretching is only necessary before exercise, but stretching afterwards is essential to avoid cramping, tightness and reduced range of motion.

Warm up for three to five minutes prior to stretching. A warm-up is any continuous movement that increases your body's core temperature, such as going up and down the stairs a few times or riding a stationary bike.

Breathe slowly and deeply throughout each stretch. Calm breathing will help relax you and your muscles and facilitate safe, effective stretching.

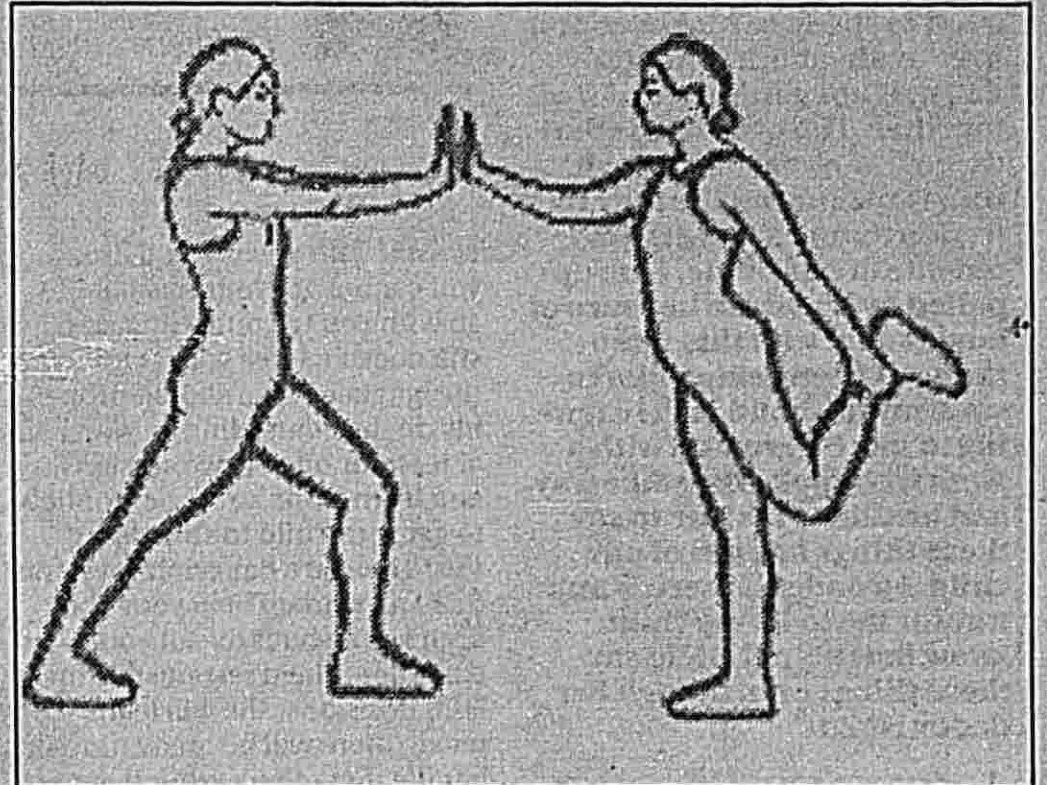

Focus on the muscles being stretched and hold each stretch for at least 10 to 30 seconds, or five to six full breaths. Repeat each stretch three to five times.

Don't bounce. Bouncing can force the joints past their natural range of motion, causing sprains of the ligaments or tendons. Instead, focus on stretching to a point where you feel a mild tension. If the tension goes away after 10 to 30 seconds of holding the stretch, adjust your body ever so slightly until you feel a mild tension again, and hold for a further 10 to 30 seconds.

Most importantly, stretching should feel good. Never go beyond the point of feeling a mild tension in your muscles. If the tension is uncomfortable, you are overstretching and should ease up slightly.

Hamstring Stretches Seated Hamstring Stretch

Sit with your legs straight in front of you, with your feet relaxed (do not flex or point them). Bend one leg so that the bottom of the foot touches the inner thigh of the straight leg. With a straight back and open chest, bring your forehead toward the shin of the straight leg. Reach for your foot with both hands. Repeat for the other leg.

Stretching provides many benefits, including increased range of motion and greater range of motion.

Variation: If you cannot reach your foot, place a towel around your foot and hold onto the ends of the towel with both hands. You should feel this stretch in the back of your thigh.

Guidelines: Hold each stretch for ten to thirty seconds. Repeat three to five times.

Lying Hamstring Stretch

Lie on your back with your knees bent and your feet flat on the floor. Extend one leg straight up toward the ceiling. Grasp the leg with both hands and slowly pull it toward your face until you feel a slight tension. Make sure you keep your head relaxed with your chin tucked in slightly. Repeat for the other leg. The important thing is not how close your leg comes to your chest but that the leg stays straight and you feel tension. If you have difficulty reaching your leg, loop a towel around your foot for help. You should feel this stretch in the back of your thigh.

Guidelines: Hold each stretch for ten to thirty seconds. Repeat three to five times.

Guidelines: Hold each stretch for ten to thirty seconds. Repeat three to five times. —By Laura Losada

Achieve success in sport, life: master the mind

Since the day you took your very first steps as an infant, with your mind focused on the present moment — free of concern or anxiety — your body relaxed and your emotions uninhibited, you had within you the force behind the means for achieving success in both sport and life.

What you had then was body mind mastery, and although you may not realize it, you have the potential for achieving it even now, says Dan Millman, author of "Body Mind Mastery: Creating Success in Sport and Life" (New World Library).

"We begin life with nearly unlimited potential," Millman says, "But then we lose touch with many of our childhood skills, through limiting beliefs, emotional conflict and physical tensions."

A former world champion trampolinist, martial arts instructor, gymnastics coach and college professor, Millman draws from decades of world-class training, research, observation, intuition and teaching to demonstrate how any form of skill training — be it sports, music, dance or martial arts — can benefit and enhance everyday life.

According to Millman, skill training can become a path to a greater goal, a doorway to personal growth or a bridge to your fullest human potential. The process begins first by understanding that it's not about dedicating your life to your training, but about dedicating your training to your life.

The book, a revised and updated edition of Millman's "The Inner Athlete," uses sports training as a metaphor that can be applied to every facet of life, to help you overcome self-created hurdles and reawaken your body mind mastery. Featuring warm-up exercises, photos and detailed instructions on creating a daily exercise routine to help master the technique, the book also includes a section on the aging athlete.

The principles behind body mind mastery include:

- Understand the larger game — Have a realistic vision and deep awareness of your potential in a given endeavor. This requires understanding natural laws, like balance, as well as applying the power of awareness and preparation to any situation, be it job-hunting or solving ing a math equation.

- Develop talent — Mental, emotional and physical talent all are factors in achieving a goal. An athlete who exercises diligently, yet hasn't developed the mental talent of concentration or the ability to apply breathing techniques to ease emotional tension, undoubtedly will meet obstacles.

- Body mind mastery in action — Body mind mastery integrates natural laws, talent and technique. Through a brand-new Peaceful Warrior warm-up, Millman shares the tools for training, tips on competition and cooperation, as well as a comprehensive look at the evolution of athletes.

For more information or to order the book, call 1-800-97-BOOKS (1-800-972-6657) or visit www.nwlib.com on the Internet.

Seal out tooth decay with dental sealants

February is National Children's Dental Health Month and the Illinois State Dental Society wants parents to know that dental sealants can help protect their children's teeth from decay.

A sealant is a clear material that is applied to the chewing surfaces of the back teeth (premolars and molars), where decay occurs most often. The sealant acts as a barrier, protecting the decay-prone areas of the back teeth from a sticky film of bacteria called plaque.

Pits and fissures are depressions and grooves in the chewing surfaces of the back teeth. They are difficult to keep clean because toothbrush bristles cannot reach into them. The sealant forms a thin covering that keeps out plaque and food and decreases the risk of decay.

Each tooth takes only a few minutes to seal. After cleaning the teeth that will be sealed, the dentist conditions the chewing surface to help the sealant adhere to the tooth. The sealant is then applied to the tooth enamel, where it covers and protects the tooth against bacteria.

While the sealant remains intact, the tooth surface will be protected from decay. Sealants hold up well under the force of normal chewing. Although sealants may last several years before a reapplication, regular checkups are important so the dentist can examine the child's teeth, gums and sealants.

Ask your dentist if your child can benefit from sealants.

Monkey see, monkey do

Hi Dr. Singer,

I have a problem with the "Monkey See Monkey Do Syndrome." My husband has a pretty colorful vocabulary and uses it quite often. I've tried to speak to him over and over again about toning it down, if not getting rid of it altogether. The problem is that we have a 7-year-old daughter who is picking up the four letter words and saying them outside of our home. I am appalled by it and am not sure of how to deal with this. Even though I keep asking him to stop, my husband isn't listening to me. He grew up with a Mom who spoke the same way and he thinks it's fine to say these things in front of our child. I wonder if there is any way for me to let my child know that it's not OK to say these things even though her daddy is? Z.D.

Dear Z.D.,

I think you've diagnosed this one correctly as the whole "monkey see" problem. You can help your child to understand this, however, I will say that you have some work ahead of you and it will not be easy.

The first thing I would tell you to do is to not give up on your husband. Try and get in to see a counselor with your husband to see if a neutral person between you might help to smooth some of the different viewpoints. I often see parents who are not in the same camp regarding behavior and the best 1st step would be to try and get both parents on the same team. I would be glad to consult with you if you'd like. If you cannot get your husband to go with you to counseling, and he still doesn't agree with stopping the language, you should probably do the counseling by yourself, at least for one or two sessions, and learn some strategies for how to get your child to stop doing this. There are behavioral systems that will work to help your children learn about this. If your daughter is held responsible for HER decisions, she will learn. After all, there will be many times in her life that others around her will be doing things that she should not be involved in.

Wouldn't it be great if from the age of seven, she learned to follow what she knew was right for her, instead of what was right for others around her. The hard part here is that Daddy should be a role model and that gets confusing for her. You might mention those words to Daddy and see if that might get through to him.

The logic that I try to use in a situation that involves a young child doing things that are more characteristic of an adult, is to point out to both parents and children that there are many things that kids are not allowed to do, that adults are. For example, adults are allowed to drive. Kids aren't. Adults are allowed to smoke. Kids aren't. Adults are allowed in "R" rated movies. Kids aren't.

There are many things in our society that adults are allowed to do that kids just aren't allowed to do. There have been a lot of kids who I have met who do strongly feel that they should be allowed all the same privileges that their parents have. This is usually a significant indicator that boundaries in the family need to be stronger. At age 7, it may be a little tough for your daughter to understand what is adult and what is child, but if you make clear that foul language isn't appreciated from her or Daddy either, but Daddy is an adult and can make that decision, you are setting up a very important boundary for your daughter to understand for other future behaviors as well.

Obviously, the best scenario is that your husband sees the light and stops using the language, but sometimes, what comes naturally, happens before we think. Remember that one or two sessions might be helpful. Call me if you want to consult.

The skinny on fat—Being pregnant means you get to eat fat guilt-free!

Watching the types and amounts of fat you eat is important — for the short and long term — for several reasons:

- Ounce per ounce, fat has more than twice as many calories as carbohydrate or protein.

- Some types of fat are absolutely essential for humans because the body cannot make them. EPA and DHA, two omega-3 oils found in fish, are important for the building of fetal brain (which is 60 percent lipid) and eye tissue. Alpha-linoleic acid, found in polyunsaturated vegetable oils, can be converted to EPA and DHA in the body, but not very efficiently. Best sources of alpha-linoleic are canola oil and soybean oil.

Another essential fat that can't be made in your body is linoleic acid (omega-6). All vegetable oils contain linoleic acid, but safflower oil is richest. Most people's diets contain too much omega-6 and not enough omega-3. Omega-6 and omega-3 oils form biologically active compounds that affect body functions such as blood pressure, blood clotting and immune response, so the right balance could make a profound difference to overall health. To get enough of these essential fats in your diet, try to have a balance of oils rich in omega-6 and omega-3. Eating fish (especially fatty fish) a few times per week can help ensure adequate omega-3 intake.

- Fat calories are stored easier than calories from other sources. Meaning, the more fat you eat, the more fat you wear.

- A high-fat intake is implicated in heart disease and certain types of cancer, especially breast, prostate and colon cancer.

- A high-fat diet, or eating fried foods, can aggravate the nausea of early pregnancy and heartburn later in pregnancy.

- Types of fat called trans-fatty acids are made when liquid oils are hydrogenated for storage or cooking purposes — for example, oil that is made into shortening or stick margarine. These types of fat appear worse than saturated fat in terms of heart disease and may have widespread implications for other diseases. Recent research also shows that trans-fatty acids get into the fetal blood stream in relation to the mother's consumption; trans-fat could restrict birth weight. Trans-fatty acids are mostly found in margarines, shortening and products made from these, such as bakery goods, commercially fried foods and snack foods. You may want to avoid margarine or use as little as possible and keep processed, high-fat foods to a minimum. Look at the label of several margarines and choose a "tub" product that has liquid oil as the first ingredient. Currently, the amount of trans-fatty acids is not listed on the food label.

To put your own fat intake in perspective, fat should be about 30 percent of your calories. If you are having difficulty gaining weight, you may need to increase your intake of fat, but try to get the extra fat from vegetable sources (such as avocado, nuts, peanut butter, vegetable oils, etc.).

"The average pregnant woman needs 2,200 to 2,400 calories, and 30 percent of those calories would work out to be about 70 to 90 grams of fat." This may sound like a lot.

Andrea Moore digs leaf burning ban out of the ashes

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

Like the mythical Phoenix that rises from the ashes, the leaf burning ban controversy has once again resurfaced. This time, the ban proposal was taken to a higher level of government by State Representative Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville).

Smoke from leaf and yard waste burning could become a nostalgic memory for Lake County residents, if legislation introduced to the Illinois House last week by Moore is adopted.

Moore is the key sponsor of House Bill 3009, which would ban the open burning of landscape waste within the Illinois Ozone Nonattainment Areas, which include Lake, Cook and McHenry counties. Exemptions for agricultural and conservation purposes are included in the bill. If the bill is signed into law, offenders could face fines of up to $500 for each offense.

Moore said she is very hopeful that the bill will be adopted. She noted that the bill could get called to the House floor as early as next week.

"We [the bill sponsors] are very enthused," stated Moore. "We are also very close to getting support from the Municipal League."

Her legislation is already supported by the Illinois Department of Natural Resources, the Illinois Environmental Council, the Illinois Lung Assoc., the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and the Sierra Club.

Lake County Board member Sandy Cole (R-Grayslake) said the bill will actually encourage all counties to institute some sort of ordinance or policy regarding leaf burning. She pointed out that the language of the house bill is a "little vague," and hopes that it will get clearer before it reaches the house floor.

Cole initially voted for a partial ban and restrictions on leaf burning, but ultimately voted against the recommendation when the issue went to the floor of the county board. She did suggest, at the time, that further studies should be made and be brought back to the board. Her motion was rejected by a 11-10 vote.

"A lot of people are in denial that Lake County has poor air quality," stressed Cole. "We are stuck, like a valley, between two major industrial cities—Kenosha and Chicago. Andrea is really looking out for the health of her constituents."

Many residents may not see it that way. Unincorporated Lake County resident Marv Westfall called Moore's legislation a "political football that isn't going anywhere."

Westfall maintained that he would "love to see all leaf burning stopped in Lake County," but not if it means getting unfunded mandates from the state.

"Someone is going to have to pay for leaf collections," said Westfall, who admitted to researching the issue for months. "If Moore can get funding for this project, then I will be the first to go out and campaign for her. The worst law that can be put put towards ten watershed projects, totaling $383,980, this year. Another $10,000 will be put into a contingency fund for unforeseen extensions of a project, or any other WMB project that may surface during the year.

Projects approved for monetary grants and technical assistance by the SMC for 2000 include:

•Des Plaines River Watershed: Funded projects include $18,872 towards Vernon Hills Seavey Drain Stream Restoration and Management Project; $18,872 towards Lake Zurich's Buffalo Creek Stream Restoration and Management Project; $3,000 towards Fremont Township's West Shore Park Stream Maintenance Project; and $3,000 towards Fremont Township's Sylvan Lake Streambank Stabilization Project.

•Fox River Watershed: $7,827 towards Grant Township's Long Lake Erosion Protection Project; $9,500 towards Tower Lake's Country Club Estates Drainage Improvement Project; $13,348 towards Lake Villa's Buena Avenue Drainage Project.

•North Branch of the Chicago River Watershed: $17,489 towards Green Oak's Swale Construction Project; $9,000 towards Highland Park's Skokie River Restoration Partnership.

•Lake Michigan Watershed: $15,790 towards Beach Park's Bull Creek Ravine Stabilization Project.

Over the past eight years, the SMC has been able to fund over $9 million in projects.

On the local level, some of these projects have proven to be a positive for residents, with improved drainage around homes and on streets. On a larger scale, these projects have improved the flow and quality of water in streams and swales, and enhanced stormwater facilities that provided wetlands and recreational opportunities.

WMB members establish a criteria by which these projects are selected, giving highest consideration to those that benefit multiple jurisdictions and the major drainage system of the watershed and environment.

"The success of the grant program relies solely on the co-sponsors," said Ward Miller, SMC's executive director. "Those municipalities, townships, community associations and drainage districts are working on interjurisdictional issues, and in the spirit of intergovernmental cooperation."

into effect is one that is unfunded."

Moore does not appear to be worried about how this legislation may affect her future re-election.

"I've been out in front of this issue for the last eight years," she said. "I'm pretty straightforward about where I stand on issues, and I will continue to work on this one because I truly believe in it."

Last year, Moore hosted a local public hearing on the subject, which was attended by several of her House colleagues and participants offering testimony on both sides.

"This has been a hotly-debated topic for some time, and I've spoken with many constituents on both sides of the issue," said Moore.

"I do think people are beginning to realize that this is not an issue of nostalgia, but one of public health," she concluded.

LAND

Habitat restoration potential is great for this area, the committee members agreed. The area includes a viewpoint from which visitors would be able to see for miles. This land would link the 1,200-acre Rollins Savanna with the Larsen property.

The land will be purchased at $22,000 per acre, or $1.76 million.

The board will meet later this month to approve the purchase.

According to reports from Friedmann's neighbors, he was heading for a reunion with his wife when the plane crashed, and has two children, ages 15 and four.

Ex-firefighter busted for child porn

Mundelein—A former paid-on-call Mundelein firefighter was arrested on a warrant for six counts of possession of child pornography.

Harold C. Davidson, 30, of Mundelein turned himself in to police after a search of his computer found several incriminating downloaded files.

Police began their investigation of Davidson in September, after a complaint from his ex-wife filtered its way to the fire department. After the complaint reached the Mundelein Police Department, they felt the charge was too serious not to investigate.

Police confiscated Davidson's computer, which was in the possession of his ex-wife, and obtained a search warrant to look at the files.

Investigators found over 4,000 images on the computer. At least 20 of these depicted minors in lewd acts.

Davidson was released after paying $2,000 on a $20,000 cash bond. He will appear at the Lake County Circuit Court on Feb. 10.

High school to inquiry grade change

Grayslake—Grayslake Community High School (GCHS) Superintendent and Principal Elizabeth McDonald is conducting an internal investigation into the matter of a grade change for a student.

The situation, according to McDonald, is that an administrator changed the grade without notifying the teacher of the change. McDonald said that the administrator has the authority to change a grade, according to the school code, however, the teacher must be notified.

Administrator M. Ruth Deininger, language arts director, explained that in late November, she began working with the student, the parents and the teacher to remedy what seemed to be a problem after the parents contacted her. In January, it was time to review the progress.

"I made a hard decision," admitted Deininger. "I would have preferred to make the change sooner. But the best thing for everyone concerned was to make a change."

About allegations that the student's grade was changed so that the student could participate in a sporting event, Deininger said, "The association (of the grade change) with the athletic department does not exist. The allegations are harmful and insulting."

District 116 talking deep cuts

Round Lake—Hundreds turned out for a town meeting held by the District 116 Board of Education on Jan. 27 to discuss potential program cuts should the referendums fail.

With a $9.7 million deficit, the district is facing the possibility of having the Illinois State Board of Education assign an oversight panel to take control of all financial decisions.

Potential staff cuts include special education coordinators, bilingual directors, secretaries, teaching assistants and athletic directors.

Programs that could be cut include physical education, kindergarten, student council, music, fine arts, social and academic clubs, athletics, driver's education, field trips and honors and accelerated courses.

"The only reason we are in debt is because we've held off cutting programs, hoping the community would vote yes to a referendum," said James Hult, board member.

Developers seek input

Wadsworth—Developers of the commercial development Wadsworth Crossing are seeking public input on what kinds of businesses residents would patronize.

The three and one-half acre development is to be located at Rte. 41 and Wadsworth Rd. in Wadsworth.

The shopping center will likely be anchored by a branch bank on the north side with convenience businesses like a gas station, deli and car wash on the south side.

Potential businesses may include a coffee shop, card and gift shop, dry cleaner, hair salon, family restaurant, fine restaurant, florist, full service grocer, gourmet food shop, health food store, pharmacy, travel agency and video rental store.

Visit their web site, www.wadsworthcrossing.com for more information or to contact them with responses.

Fire causes $300,000 in damages

Libertyville—A fire in an underground parking garage on the 13000 block of Heiden Circle caused the lot's roof to collapse, crushing three cars, fire officials said.

Eric Boulton, 42, a resident of the condominium complex that the garage serviced, was injured in the fire and later hospitalized in serious condition.

At about 2:50 a.m. Boulton tried to extinguish a fire that had started in his car, officials said. While he was doing this, he suffered smoke inhalation.

The car fire spread to two other cars, causing an intense heat inside the garage. The heat caused part of the ceiling structure to collapse onto the three burning cars. The cause of the fire is undetermined.

In all, about 60 cars were damaged by the heat and smoke created by the fire. Total damages from the fire were estimated between $200,000 and $300,000.

Rollins Road project in county plan

Ingleside—The days of negotiating over a narrow stretch of Rollins Road in Ingleside may be a thing of the past.

The Lake County Board is embarking on a $2.7 million project that will improve the "S" curve heading into Fox Lake village limits.

$580,000 of the funding will come from the motor fuel tax, $870,000 will come from the county bridge tax. The $1.3 million total from these two sources will be matched.

Homeowners group weighs options

Volo—A homeowners group is considering a lawsuit against the Village of Volo regarding the planned Four Oaks and Home Depot development.

The Grant Township Territory Assn. (GTTA) will meet Feb. 10. The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be at Lakeland Community Bank, Routes 12 and 134.

The Ingleside-based homeowners group has been watching the Route 12 development's progress since Volo board members approved it last June. The site is the former Miller Farm area. Plans call for Home Depot and hundreds of apartments.

Lake Villa resident fights to regain health

Lake Villa—Betty Ravagni, a Lake Villa resident, was experiencing pain and exhaustion about 10 years ago and was uncertain about what the causes of her ailments might be.

Ravagni was diagnosed in 1998 with fibromyalgia, a condition associated with widespread aching, stiffness and fatigue, originating in muscles and soft tissue.

Not wanting to deal with the side effects, she took herself off of the medication completely but still continued to search for a way to dissolve her symptoms.

After a few months, Ravagni met Chris Lindh, who was working at a stand promoting health products at the fair in April of 1999. Ravagni explained what her condition was and Lindh recommended a few health supplements that might help and a nutrition seminar.

According to Ravagni, she immediately started a new diet of more protein and water, less carbohydrates and fat, along with health supplements.

The new diet and supplements made a drastic change in her life for the better.

State treasurer visits school

Round Lake Beach—State Treasurer Judy Baar Topinka made a visit with her Scottish Terrier to Round Lake Beach Elementary School on Jan. 27, to personally thank sixth-graders for sending her letters.

The students went on a letter writing campaign to state officials to finalize their studies of the Illinois government handbook.

"Your questions were the most original questions I've gotten in the whole state of Illinois. Congratulations for being so thoughtful," she praised.

Topinka is the first woman in Illinois history to serve as state treasurer, and the first Republican to be elected in 32 years.

EDITORIALS

High tax rank dubious 'honor'

It should come as no surprise to property owners that Lake County is a high tax area. The question is how high? Now we know. Caution. Pass the aspirin.

In a study compiled by the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois, a reputable watchdog group, for 1997 residential property taxes paid in 1998, the highest average household cost—$5,183—was in Lake County. By comparison, the lowest was $315 in Pulaski County, in the southern most part of the state.

The household tax burden is a comparatively new benchmark. It is derived by taking the average per capita residential tax burden and multiplying by four to represent a typical household.

As analysts from the Taxpayers' Federation pointed out, the 16 to 1 ratio between Lake and Pulaski counties illustrates the great disparity in property wealth throughout Illinois. The disparity, in a nutshell, is a major reason why legislators have such a difficult time hammering out equitable formulas for state aid to public schools.

Lake County's collar county neighbors, DuPage, McHenry, Kane and Kendall round out the top five counties having more than a 3 to 1 ratio of residential property tax extensions to property tax extensions provided by any other single category.

No small comfort to Lake County taxpayers is the fact that there are two other counties, Grundy in the collar southwest of Chicago, and DeWitt in the center of the state, with a higher per capita tax attributable to schools. Latest figures available from 1997 showed a per capita property school tax of $1,164.59 for Grundy and $1,159.49 cents for DeWitt compared to Lake County in third place with $1,103.36. Statewide, the school share per capita average is $717.36.

The No. 1 ranking, to be sure, is a dubious distinction. What it shows, among other things, is that Lake County is a wealthy area, albeit an expensive place to live, but also the possessor of resources that are the envy of a majority of Illinois counties. With the high percentage of household income going for taxes, it behooves every taxpayer in the county to make sure, moreover demand, that value in public education and services be received.

Accepting less should be unthinkable, in our opinion.

Moore re-ignites leaf flash point

State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville), noted in her days as a member of the Lake County Board for frequently plowing into uncharted political seas unfettered by storm reports and incomplete navigational charts, has dredged up reminders of the past with plans to ban leaf burning in Cook, Lake and McHenry counties.

Ignoring the furor caused in west Lake County last summer when former colleagues on the County Board briefly considered but wisely dropped a leaf burning ban proposal for unincorporated areas, Moore is revisiting an explosive subject. That's putting it mildly. Moore represents the 61st District of mostly Libertyville Township and Warren (Gurnee) Township that puts her safely out of the treacherous shoals where the burning ban was debated eight months ago. You have to wonder if Moore would be pushing a leaf burning ban if her district included Fremont, Grant, Antioch and Lake Villa townships where homeowners passionately argued that a leaf burning prohibition was impractical nonsense.

One of the significant features of last year's debate was that opponents successfully drained away emotion and debunked alleged health menaces advanced by environmentalists. A strong practical argument against a burning ban was advanced by township highway commissioners who pointed out that the county proposal amounted to an unfunded mandate because they were targeted to handle leaf disposal. Come to think of it, the General Assembly has a well grounded reputation for dumping unfunded mandates on "lesser" forms of government.

Some of the wiser heads on the Lake County Board would perform a welcome service if they could take Andrea Moore aside and tell her how they thrashed out the subject pretty well last year. The county already has good guidelines for leaf burning and a workable system that addresses both health and disposal needs. Why is Rep. Moore pouring gasoline on a question that already has been answered?

VIEWPOINT

Crowded 10th race begins to sort out

With approximately six weeks to primary election day, the sorting out process in the crowded field of candidates for the Republican nomination for Congress from the 10th Dist. is beginning to take place.

Because of where a majority of the candidates live, most of the early skirmishing has been on the Cook County side of the district that runs along the North Shore to the Wisconsin state line and reaches into Libertyville Township and parts of Arlington Heights.

That leaves GOP voters in the Lake County portion of the 10th, and they hold a solid majority of registered voters, with a unique role in deciding who will be the next U.S. representative.

Despite their personal preference, few Republicans at this point are arguing that Mark Steven Kirk, 41, the boyish chief of staff a decade ago under retiring Congressman John Porter, isn't in the top tier of aspirants. Kirk knows the district, holds a law degree, has Navy Reserve service, and his fiscal conservative/social moderate views fit a district with decidedly more liberal views than conservative west Lake County voters served by Congressman Phil Crane (R-Wauconda). In short, Mark Kirk is the "son" of John Porter, although the respected lawmaker has not endorsed his former aide. Insiders say Porter has no intentions of conferring "heir apparent" status on Kirk. Besides a penchant for embellishing his resume, the knock on Kirk is that he doesn't possess necessary financial firepower. GOP bigwigs who want to see a seamless transfer of power are promising that Kirk won't run short at the bank.

Andrew Hochberg, Highland Park businessman and a former Democrat, has thrust himself into the list of leading GOP contenders with a relentless spending binge, mostly TV commercials. If anything, Hochberg's effort will be a test of the power of television advertising. Hochberg will appeal to independents and maybe even some Democrats. But they don't vote in the primary.

Shawn Margaret Donnelley of Libertyville can't be counted out of the upper level for two reasons: She's the only woman in the race and she can go toe-to-toe in the spending department with any of her opponents. Despite Donnelley's youth (age 30), none of the candidates can top Donnelley's experience in constituent service and legislative lobbying. That's been her job with the famous Donnelley family printing business. Disarming and gracious, Donnelley figures to be a force in a district that is partial to women in public office.

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

As mayor of Northbrook, Mark Damisch is fairly well known to voters on the Cook County side. Too well known, his detractors say. Because of Northbrook's ballooning budget, Damisch will have some explaining to do on his spending philosophy. Also, he has been tip-toeing on gun control questions, leaving himself on both sides of the issue in the eyes of many.

On two traditional GOP positions, reigning in the federal government and cutting taxes, CPA and tax attorney John Cox of Glenview stands out. Cox, an active Catholic churchman, doesn't hide his pro-life views, but his campaign strategy is to stress job creation and solid employment in the private sector as the best means of providing affordable health insurance. More than any other Republican, Cox offers the most distinct difference between the Democratic nominee, State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Highland Park) who is running unopposed.

After Kirk, Donnelley, Cox and Hochberg, the field thins out rapidly.

The campaign of Lake Bluff's Thomas Lachner, a former state representative, is having a tough time getting off the ground. Others who will be on the GOP ballot include professional wrestler Jon Stewart of Deerfield, drug abuse counselor Scott Phelps of Mt. Prospect, James Goulka of Kenilworth, a former Encyclopedia Britannica executive; John Guy, who wants to raise the minimum wage to $10, and Terry Gladman of Glencoe.

This will be the field, barring any further drop outs like Winnetka businessman Tom Eilers who quit to support Goulka.

Boulder adventure

Wade Beane, a young professional in adventure education, has turned bouldering into one of the hottest activities offered at Hastings Lake YMCA. Bouldering is learning basic and advanced rock climbing in a controlled setting, typically an indoor environment. In a 1,000 square foot room with an eight foot ceiling, Wade has created a setting where beginning to advanced climbers can train. Synthetic materials are used. The boulder room at the Y in Lake Villa even has an overhang.

Going Main Street

A transplanted Nebraskan, Kandelyn Hahn, has accepted the assignment of breathing new life into Waukegan's downtown revitalization. Hahn, who most recently was a staff aide for Chicago's Six Corners rehab, is going to use Main Street program techniques employed successfully in Libertyville and Mundelein as models. Hahn said growing up in Nebraska prepared her for Lake County's cutting winter winds and severe temperature swings. Technically, Hahn is executive director of the Waukegan Downtown Assn., which will be supplanted by Main Street when approval is attained.

Stevenson growing

Stevenson High School, Lake County's largest in enrollment with 3,782 students, has quite a way to go before ranking with the largest schools in the nation even though an enrollment of 4,500 is projected for 2005. There's a technical high school in Indianapolis, Ind., with enrollment in excess of 6,000. For many years, enrollment at Chicago's Lane Tech ran about 4,000. Years ago, before demographic shifts in the Chicago area, J. Sterling Morton in Cicero was around 5,000. Stevenson will be pushing out the walls again this spring, this time for a 41,000 square foot addition.

One man's family

We should have known better when a golden retriever puppy took up residence in our home. Retrievers are born to retrieve. Soiled socks from the laundry basket, our neighbor's newspaper, banana peels from the trash compactor, old garage brooms, a shoe from the closet. It's all the same to Sadie. Help, help, golden fans. Are they all alike?

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Leafblad facing force of regular GOP, builders

Skilled political strategist Fred Bigham is directing traffic for Mollie Larson in her attempt to unseat County Board Rep. Larry Leafblad (R-Highland Lake).

Bigham, a resident of Island Lake and former village trustee, in the past has been allied with regular Republican causes which rely on support from the building industry. Leafblad is an independent Republican and a vocal advocate for open space and controlled growth.

The contested District 6 race also includes Robert Powers of Round Lake Beach, who has been active in Avon Township GOP activities.

A decade ago, Bigham was involved with the team that upset Avon Township Supervisor Norman Geary, Leafblad's father-in-law. Geary, a leader on the economy bloc of the County Board and a former county chair, did not run for reelection after his township defeat.

Because of his position as chairman of the County Board's committee on planning, building and zoning, Leafblad said he's been targeted by the building industry and developers.

Bigham is a respected political consultant and has done work for the federal government.

System aids Gash

State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Highland Park), who always has portrayed herself outside the system, can be thankful that the system cleared her path for a nomination for Congress from the 10th District.

Gash's only opponent, radio station employee Kevin Q. Harvey, 43, of Glenview, was knocked off the primary ballot by state elections officials for an insufficient number of valid signatures on his nominating petitions. Harvey, a newcomer, simply shrugged and said he would

Field thinner

As predicted, the Republican ranks for a 10th District nominating are thinning out. With the campaign now in the "sorting out" phase, Winnetka businessman, Tom Ellers dropped out in favor of Jim Goulka of Kenilworth. With most of the original 12-person GOP field coming from the Cook County side of the North Shore district, more drop outs can be expected. The 10th runs along Lake Michigan and extends into parts of Libertyville and Arlington Heights.

Unknown in race

A Mundelein resident and political unknown is expected to be on the ballot March 21 as nominee from the Reform Party for Congress from the 10th District. John D. Ororato, 40, has decriminalization of marijuana as one of his campaign planks. He is employed as an insurance analyst.

Sheriff backs Rathje

Judge Bob Thomas' popularity during his professional football playing days isn't rubbing off on his efforts to gain the Republican nomination for an Illinois Supreme Court judgeship. Thomas, a place kicker for the Chicago Bears 20 years ago, is running behind Justice Louis Rathje who has picked up a flock of law enforcement endorsements including Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re. Thomas and Rathje both hail from DuPage County. Rathje holds the high court seat through appointment.

Price is right

Lt. Gov. Corinne Wood is backing Republican Cesille Price of Lake Forest all the way to take back her old job, representing the 59th District in the Illinois General Assembly now held by a Democrat. Wood, also a Lake Forest resident, will be guest speaker Sunday, Feb. 6 at a reception for Price at Harrison House, Lake Bluff. The 59th includes part of Libertyville, Lake Bluff, Lake Forest, North Chicago and Waukegan's south side.

Free pizza

Dee Beaublen of Barrington is tossing a free pizza party for supporters of her husband, State Rep. Mark Beaublen, running for reelection in the west Lake County 52nd District. Friends are requested to bring their appetites to the Wauconda American Legion Hall, Saturday, Feb. 19. Serving will be from 5:30 to 8 p.m.

Warning labels often wacky

Ibought some One-a-Day vitamin pills. The directions on the bottle said, "Take two a day." I took a coat to the One-Hour Cleaners. They said they could have it ready in five hours.

And over at One-Hour Photos the clerk explained, "We're way behind today. Come back for your pictures in six hours."

Is this a wacky world or what? Consider the following label instructions on various products:

On a Sears hair dryer: "Do not use while sleeping."

On a bar of Dial soap, directions: "Use like regular soap."

On Swanson frozen dinners: "Serving suggestion, defrost."

On a hotel-provided shower cap: "Fits one head."

On packaging for a Rowenta Iron: "Do not iron clothes on body."

I found those wacky warning labels while grazing on the Internet. They appeared under the heading, "In case you needed further proof that the human race is doomed, here are some actual label instructions on consumer goods."

And I came across the following operating directions while reading the owner's manuals for our two cars, directions obviously not aimed at rocket scientists.

For our big Mercury:

To operate, start the engine.

Speedometer: The speedometer tells you how many miles per hour your vehicle is moving.

On slippery roads, drive more slowly than you normally would.

Finding the spare tire: The spare is stored in the trunk. (And all this time I've been looking for it in the glove box.)

And from the owner's manual for our little Nissan:

In third gear, do not exceed 80 miles per hour.

The gas gauge indicates the approximate fuel level in the tank. Refill the fuel tank before the gauge registers empty.

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

If you have a flat tire, stop the vehicle. (Oh, really? We never would have thought of that.)

The Washington Post newspaper a few years ago ran a contest in which readers were asked to come up with absurd (but fake) warning labels for common products.

The judges loved one particular entry for its wonderful idiosyncrasy. On a cardboard windshield sun shade: "Warning, do not drive with sun shade in place."

"We were going to make it a winner," the judges said, "until we discovered that it wasn't made up."

The runners-up included:

On an infant's bathtub: "Do not throw the baby out with the bath water."

On a roll of Life Savers: "Not for use as a flotation device."

On a disposable razor: "Do not use this product during an earthquake."

On a piano: "Harmful or fatal if swallowed."

And the winner was:

On a cup of McDonald's coffee, "Allow to cool before applying to groin area."

And here a few more wacky warning labels actually being used:

On a cough medicine for children: "Do not drive car or operate machinery."

On Nytil (a sleep aid), "Warning: May cause drowsiness."

On a Korean kitchen knife: "Warning, keep out of children."

On an American Airlines packet of nuts, "Instructions: Open packet, eat nuts."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Iam sending you this letter to correct some of the misinformation that has been given to the newspapers about Wilmot Mountain Ski Hills. Walter Stopa Sr. started Wilmot Mountain and his family has operated it for more than half a century. I was contacted by one of the Stopas to ask if we would be interested in purchasing the ski hills. I was told that Steven Schwarzbach and some other lawyers, from the Chicago area, were interested in purchasing the property. My family and I were concerned that the area would fall into continued hard times and be lost to the community.

The continued operation of the ski hills is important to my family for several reasons: 1. We have family, friends and employees that work at the ski hills over the winter months; 2. The ski hills are very important to our community not only financially but socially; 3. Three generations of our family ski at Wilmot Ski Hills and we want future generations to have that opportunity; 4. Our father and Walter Stopa, Sr. were good neighbors and friends while Walter Sr. was alive; and 5. Purchasing the hills was hopefully a way for us to earn some money while helping the community and provide the Stopa family with an opportunity to continue running the ski hills.

Thelen Sand and Gravel, Inc. will not purchase the ski hills. Thelen Sand and Gravel, Inc. nor the Thelen family has ever had any interest in taking down the ski hills.

The Thelen family believes that the ski hills are an icon of our community. Our family want to purchase the ski hill property and lease the ski hills back to one of the Stopa family members. The Stopa lease will make it possible for the Wilmot Ski Hills to remain an icon for our community.

Still bulldozing

Four years ago Lake County residents voted for controlled growth. The legacy of urban sprawl created by "Bulldozer" Bob Depke is still impacting us today with over-crowded schools, clogged roads and higher taxes. "Bulldozer Bob" has returned to find candidates who can be bought by "Homebuilders" money and they have apparently found their man, Mayor Jim Pappas of Fox Lake.

Why should residents in District 5 be leery? Remember our last Depke backed County Board representative Ed "There's nothing I can do" Fojtik? The sequel is in the wings, Jim "there is nothing I can do" Pappas II.

The facts are clear:

Bonnie Thomson Carter went to Springfield to try change the formula by which developers pay school impact fees. The "Homebuilders" defeated it.

Bonnie helped change quality wetland buffers from 30 feet to 100 feet. She understands the environmental impacts development has on the quality of our lakes.

She has voted against the filling of high quality wetlands so as to not increase downstream flooding.

Bonnie secured a $5 million dollar federal grant for flood relief projects.

During her term over a thousand acres have been purchased by the Lake County Forest Preserve in the Fox River Basin.

Bonnie pushed for county's zoning maps to reflect one acre because "that is our true character of District 5."

Bonnie brought Federal, State and local agencies together to discuss the impact electric power plants have on our aquifers. There are no longer any planned for District 5.

Bonnie Thomson Carter does not take political contributions from developers. Bonnie will play hardball with developers and will fight to preserve our quality of life in District 5.

Can you now believe Mayor Pappas will? I do not. My vote is with Bonnie.

Life in Cuba

Attorney General Janet Reno wants to send 6 year old Elian Gonzalez back to Cuba as soon as possible—"so that he can get on with his life." Reno desires to sacrifice Elian's quality of life at the altar of what she can accomplish in a hurry. Sending the child back to a totalitarian dictatorship, to live a life under brutal oppression, is a complete betrayal of Elian's best interests.

Reno ignores the fact that life in Cuba is hell. Cubans suffer an existence filled with standard Marxist-Leninist poverty, devoid of human rights. Beyond a comprehensive lack of freedom of religion, press and speech, Cuba endures a repression where Fidel Castro programs each citizen as to what they should think, feel and believe. Cuban human rights organizations have documented cold-blooded executions and at least one thousand political prisoners languishing in subhuman conditions because of their failure to live at Dictator Castro's whim.

It is tyranny that thousands of Cubans have fled or attempted to flee. Moreover, it was this future in Cuba that Elian's mother died attempting to escape. It should shock the conscience of any American that our government would frustrate the intent of a dead parent, who only wanted to give her son a chance at a better life—a life of freedom.

Reno would like Americans to stop questioning our government's decision to send Elian back to Cuba. Because of the Clinton administration's slipshod review of this case, Americans should scrutinize the decision. Specifically, the Clinton administration has failed to investigate the voluntariness of Elian's father in his stated wishes, which were made from Castro's pulpit. The only hope for a just result is a review by American courts, which should determine, in the interest of human rights, the best interests of Elian Gonzalez.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Seven traps to avoid in your business

If you ask 100 troubled business owners why they struggle to stay in business, you'll get 100 different answers. If you ask 100 business owners who have failed why they failed you'll hear all the reasons except the real ones.

An objective analysis of many failing businesses will reveal that most mistakes owners make fall into a few common areas. While this list isn't comprehensive, it may help you avoid some pitfalls.

Avoiding the traps

The wrong location trap. This is a classic mistake for many of small business owners. Retailers will pick a location based on low rental rates or immediate availability. Service business owners may select a very prestigious office location to impress future customers and consume all their capital in the first year's rent. In choosing the right location, consider the following items as a minimum: your target customers, traffic patterns and flow, parking, safety issues, competition, total lease or purchase costs, room for growth and consistency with the image you wish to project.

The wrong partner trap. All too often, going into business with a friend means the end of a good friendship. Friendships are based on emotions, while businesses operate on accurate, straightforward information. I'm not saying it can't work, but most fail. If you must take on a partner put the entire partnership in writing. Tips for springing this trap: 1) Find someone who balances out your strengths and weaknesses, 2) Make sure your partner is a good communicator and is cooperative, and 3) Look for a past history of success.

The sloppy records trap. If your idea of record keeping is a box for bills and a checkbook you're about to fall in the pit. Adequate records are a prerequisite to success. You'll need good records for the Internal Revenue Service, for future borrowing needs and to know how you're doing. The minimum records include tracking sales, expenses, accounts receivable, accounts payable, payroll activity, a fixed asset schedule and a record of the money you withdraw from the business.

The financial management trap. Once you have all the records you need, you still must combine them to get a good picture of what is happening in your business. Financial statements—income statements, balance sheets and cash flow statements—bring all your records into a format that you can easily compare with previous statements to see how you're doing.

The wrong price trap. The right price is found by analyzing your competition, costs and the value you deliver. If you ignore any of these elements, you'll be caught in the wrong price trap. You must cover all your costs with your price, but you may still be undersold by companies who control their costs more effectively. So eliminate waste, focus on delivering something extra and charge what you're worth.

The wrong people trap. Want to fail fast? Surround yourself with people who know less than you do. Pay them poorly, give them minimal training and spend a lot of time

CDW sales up 55%, earnings rise 60%

Internet strategy, addition of sales staff keep firm on growth tear

CDW Computer Centers Inc., the Vernon Hills-based distributor of computers and related products, announced record sales and earnings for the fourth quarter and year ended Dec. 31.

Net sales for the fourth quarter increased 55 percent to $741.3 million from $477.2 million in the same period of 1998. Net income for the quarter rose 63 percent to $29.9 million from $18.3 million in the fourth quarter of 1998. Zeman added, "The aggressive addition of account managers initiated in 1998 continues to pay dividends as they expand and solidify relationships with customers. We will implement our growth strategy in 2000 by continuing to aggressively hire account managers and support them with marketing activities directed at increasing CDW's brand awareness and visibility. We plan to increase our sales force by approximately 30 percent in 2000 and to open our downtown Chicago sales office in the second quarter to accommodate growth."

Our web site continues to evolve as an integral part of our business model, and an extension of our account managers' relationships with customers. fail fast? Surround yourself with people who know less than you do. Pay them poorly, give them minimal training and spend a lot of time away from your business. I'll guarantee quick failure. To avoid this trap, look for good people before you need them, and train your folks continuously.

The no-time-to-plan trap. Too busy to plan? Then you're too busy to see the trap you're about to step in. Growing, thriving companies take time to plan. It doesn't have to be long, but you'd better have a plan. There are three simple steps in good planning: 1) Find out where you are, 2) Decide where you want to go, and 3) Lay out short steps to get from one to two.

Watch for these traps. The best way to solve problems is to anticipate them.

Tips on hiring household help

Fast-paced lifestyles combined with no free time and a dirty home create a recipe for maid service help. According to American Demographics magazine, have hired more than 10 million households will hire household help. That's 17 percent of American households!

But before you pick up that phone to schedule an appointment, it's important to know whom you are letting into your home. "Customers want a service they can trust," said Janet Nelson, spokesperson for The Maids International. "Our franchise owners go to great lengths to gain and ensure the trust of their customers. The Maids' owners screen employees during the interview process; do thorough background checks; use a four-person supervised cleaning team, and keep customers' keys computer coded."

The Maids provide the following tips for homeowners to follow before hiring a maid service:

- Bonding: Make sure the company is bonded. Should a theft occur, you need to be protected. Some companies, if they are bonded at all, protect only themselves, not the consumer.

- Insurance: Make sure the company is insured. If a maid slips and falls while cleaning the shower, your home owner's policy might not cover the incident.

- References: Make sure the company is reliable. Ask for references and a work history.

- Screening and hiring: Ask if employees' references are checked and if their residence status is confirmed. A professional company will screen each employee for honesty and dependability.

- Cleaning products and equipment: Some independent housekeepers as well as some services expect you to supply all cleaning products and equipment. Check out what's included with your house cleaning.

- Guarantee: Make sure the service is backed by a written satisfaction guarantee.

- Taxes: Make sure you don't break any tax laws. If you pay a housekeeper or maid at least $1,000 per year, the law requires you to pay social security and other taxes on that person. Most maid service companies withhold taxes for their employees, but check to make sure. For more information about household employee taxes, call the Internal Revenue Service at 1-800-829-1040.

The Maids is one of the oldest and largest professional residential maid services in the nation. They were established in 1979 and serve more than 400 markets in the U.S. and Canada. For more information about their services, visit The Maids Web site at: www.maids.com.

Prior research on a cleaning service can save much time and effort.

Setting the trend for home exteriors

Each year, droves of consumers visit the "Idea Homes" of the most prestigious lifestyle magazines in the United States to discover the latest interior designs, home furnishings and building materials.

These display homes are regarded as the bellwethers of architectural trends, signaling prevailing consumer home demands. Although this year's inspirational homes feature many unique aspects, they do have at least one trait in common: Many are clad in siding products from James Hardie Building Products. Examples of display homes that used James Hardie siding this year, include the following: The architects and builders of the Better Homes and Gardens "Blueprint 2000" home for the new millennium in Chapel Hill, N.C.; Southern Living's Idea House near the Village of Pinehurst, N.C.; Coastal Living's Idea House in Carillon Beach, Fla.; and Sunset's Idea House in Cupertino, Calif.

"James Hardie siding products allowed us to capture the essence of the character we were trying to achieve, yet they also offer a virtually maintenance-free base," said J. Carson Looney, FAIA, with Looney Ricks Kiss Architects in Memphis, Tenn., the firm that designed the Better Homes and Gardens show house.

Due to its proprietary fiber-cement technology, Hardiplank siding from James Hardie Building Products is the first lap siding material that does not compromise a home's character or necessitate heavy upkeep. It is guaranteed by a 50-year warranty not to rot, warp, buckle, swell or delaminate, even if exposed to rain, hail, humidity or insects.

"We have been using Hardiplank siding for several years because it won't warp, split or rot," says Jose Camina with Camina Design & Construction, the firm that built this year's Southern Living Idea House near the Village of Pinehurst, N.C. "With Hardiplank siding, I don't have to worry about 'callbacks' from homeowners because the product holds paint well, stays put and looks great."

After proving itself for more than two decades, leading builders and architects are confident in selecting Hardiplank siding to create today's desired home style. In fact, over the past 10 years, more than one million homes have been built with Hardiplank siding in the United States.

Due to the product's success, it has received numerous honors. For example, Builder magazine named the company's product one of the top 20 most innovative building products introduced in the last two decades. And, in Builder's annual survey of U.S. builders, Hardiplank siding has been rated as the highest-quality lap siding product for the past two years. Golf Course Living cited James Hardie siding products as the No. 1 way to add value to a home, and HOME selected the siding for its 1999 American Building Products award.
